Number Made Idle By Major Strikes Near 2,000,000

By BRITISH UNITED PRESS

Railroads canceled more than 600 trains in the United States today as the coal and steel strikes cut still deeper into the country's economy and spread into Canada.

Effects of the mine walkout, now in its sixth week, were felt most sharply. The Canadian National Railways announced that some trains running into the U.S. would be canceled or curtailed after midnight tonight.

The steel shutdown, in its fourth week, was expected to hit the automobile industry in the United States a crippling blow by the month's end. Canadian car manufacturers, dependent on U.S. parts for some of their models, were understood to be laying plans to meet the emergency on this side of the border.

Railroads slashed their schedules sharply to conserve dwindling coal stockpiles. In Chicago, cancellation of 214 passenger and suburban trains was announced.

A Canadian Pacific Railway spokesman in Montreal said that so far, the coal strike had not affected C.P.R. operations out of the Canadian metropolis. No curtailment of C.P.R. service was immediately anticipated.

The six times per week service between Duluth and Fort Frances, Ont., was to be cut to three per week. Pacific train services were also to be cut.

Across the United States, the number of train cancellations, most of them effective at midnight tonight, mounted past 600.

The C.I.O. executive board, meeting in Cleveland, O., was reported ready to vote all-out support for the C.I.O. steelworkers in their fight for fourth-round benefits.

Mediator Reports Failure

Meanwhile, Chief Federal Mediator Cyrus Ching returned to Washington to report to the White House on his lack of progress in talks with executives of major steel companies in efforts to settle the 25-day-old steel strike.

Labor experts believed President Truman would be forced to intervene soon in the steel dispute and in the five-week-old coal strike to end a growing industrial crisis.

The number of those idled by the two strikes rapidly was approaching 2,000,000.

The 500,000 striking steelworkers received unexpected

Equivalent To Wage Cut

He said that if the industry insisted on forcing employees to contribute to such plans the workers "in effect" would suffer a wage cut.

"The steel industry is making a grave mistake by not settling this strike promptly," he said, "by accepting the fact-finding board's 'modest concessions to labor.'"

At New York, meanwhile, the general executive board of the Electrical Workers, third largest union in the C.I.O., ordered 600,000 U.E. members to raise a national fund to support the striking steel and coal workers.

The board said the steelworkers and United Mine Workers were bearing the brunt of a "drive of big business to destroy unions" and that the two groups would need all the help they could get from fellow unionists. No estimate was made of how much money the U.E. planned to raise.

Terror Rampant In Balkans As Executions Still Mount

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
PRAGUE (AP)—The executioner stalks through spy-conscious Communist eastern Europe these days.

In a single day three countries—Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia—announced Monday they had executed or sentenced to death 15 persons for espionage or other subversive activities.

More than a score of other persons were sentenced to prison terms ranging up to life.

And nobody knew how many trials were going on in secret with their verdicts not yet announced.

Hungary's hangman executed four persons.

Two of them, Lt. Gen. Gyorgi Palfy, formerly Hungary's highest ranking army officer, and Col. Bela Korondy, were co-defendants of the late Laszlo Rajk, former Hungarian Foreign Minister, executed a fortnight earlier for espionage and treason.

The government had accused all of them of plotting with Yugoslavia and American agents to overthrow their country's Red regime.

The other two executed in Hungary were Col. Deszo Nemeth, former Hungarian military attaché in Moscow, and Col. Otto Horvath. There were no details announced concerning the charges against them, or their trial.

Romania sentenced seven persons to death and 18 others to long prison terms for "terroristic subversive activities."

235,000 Fresh Red Troops Move In East Europe

LONDON (UP)—Russia has moved 235,000 fresh troops into eastern Europe in the past few months to help stamp out a vast "Titoist" underground as effective as the French war-time Maquis, a western intelligence source said today.

The source, who returned from the Balkans during the past week, said the underground is composed chiefly of anti-Soviet Communists whose immediate aim is to terrorize the Cominform leaders of their own countries.

NUMBER SLAIN

He said many minor Cominform officials have been murdered recently in Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary and that only last month an attempt to assassinate President Klement Gottwald of Czechoslovakia failed "by a few minutes."

The source, who cannot be identified, said Gottwald and other Czechoslovakia officials were en route to northwestern Bohemia by train. A bomb exploded on the tracks a few minutes before their train reached the town of Louny. Gottwald canceled a scheduled speech and returned to Prague, the source said.

Failed To Obey Junior Patrolman; Charged By Police

Esquimalt police are out to see that motorists obey the signals of junior safety patrolmen who regulate traffic at busy school intersections during the noon-hour and after school.

An East Indian wood dealer, Kabil Singh, has been charged with failing to obey a signal given by a junior patrolman from the Lampson Street School. He appeared in Esquimalt police court Monday afternoon but his case was remanded one week in order that the services of an interpreter could be had.

The charge is one of the first of its kind in the Greater Victoria area. Ruling of the magistrate in the case will determine whether or not the police-drilled boy patrolmen have any real authority or not.

The safety patrol is sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club.

Church Tells Czech Clergy To Swear Loyalty To Govt.

PRAGUE (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Roman Catholic bishops backed down in the bitter church-state fight today and told their priests to swear loyalty to the Communist-led government to stay out of jail.

The bishops' hierarchy told the priests they may accept their salaries from the state and swear loyalty to the government—a move they had fought so bitterly in recent weeks that some 300 priests have been reported arrested.

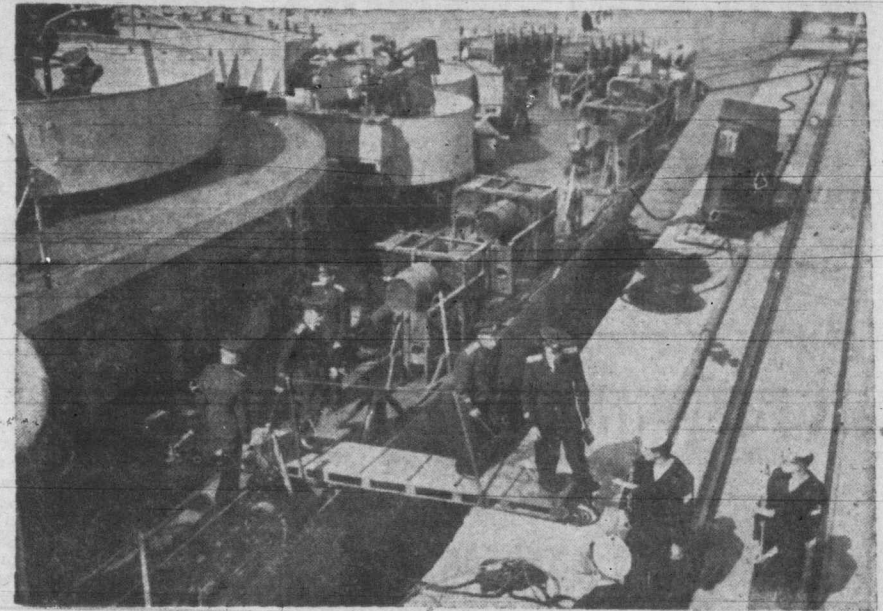

The bishops' new stand, declaring that they still "regretted" the recent enactment of the church control law, was expressed in a statement to the country's 7,000 Roman Catholic priests and made available to western newspapers. The bishops said they are allowing priests to comply with the law because they would be open to arrest and prosecution if they did not.

Alexei Cepicka, Communist minister of justice, has declared that anyone who opposed the new law would be "broken as an enemy of the state." The new law, which gives the government control of appointments, finances and administration of all churches, was passed by Parliament Oct. 14 and will become effective Nov. 1.

The bishops' statement to the priests said:

"If you accept you do so only because of the pressure of external circumstances. It is necessary to defend you against possible consequences and save you for the spiritual care of the faithful."

Only last week the bishops had stated that it would be "unmanly" to accept the higher salaries proffered under the church law "while thousands of believers and other citizens suffer in prison and work camps."

Condition Of Boy Injured In Accident Critical

Condition of seven-year-old Murray Easton, 3441 Bonair Place, badly injured in an accident in Saanich Monday afternoon, is still critical.

Saanich police said the boy was playing on Shelbourne Street, near Knight Avenue, with two other boys when in collision with a car driven by Sgt. Thomas Stevenson, 2109 Vancouver Street, a city policeman.

The physician reported Murray suffered a ruptured liver, three fractured ribs, and a fracture-dislocation of one of his vertebrae.

Police attending the accident said that Stevenson was proceeding north when the accident occurred. The car was impounded because of lack of proof of financial responsibility.

According to Saanich police, Sgt. Stevenson swung hard to avoid hitting two of the youngsters when they suddenly ran out from the curb into the path of the car.

One of Murray's playmates was Bobby Grieg, Bonair Place.

Freak Reception

DUNCAN (CP)—A "You-all" voice on the Duncan police radio complaining that "some outside station is jamming our calls" puzzled officers here for a while. Then the voice identified itself as a member of the Charleston, North Carolina, police force, which operates on the same wave length.

Freak atmospheric conditions apparently caused the unusual reception.

New Austerity Brings Revolt In Labor Party

LONDON (UP)—A revolt broke out within the Labor Party today against the new austerity program, but the rank, and file was expected to support the government in the showdown with the Conservatives Thursday.

Four Laborites submitted a motion asking for revision of the program announced in Commons Monday by Prime Minister Attlee. The motion proposed shifting the weight of the economy burden from housing and social services to the military program. It called for abolition of conscription.

All the Labor members of Parliament met with top government officials in secret this morning.

Urge Changed Economic Policy

The motion called for an entirely new economic policy:

1. Substantial cuts in the military expenditures, including abolition of conscription.
2. Economies in the national debt and consolidated fund services, Foreign Office, diplomatic service, Home Office, law and justice.
3. No reduction in the housing program.
4. No reduction in the social service benefits.

"A new economic policy shall be prepared to meet the urgent and long term needs of our country," the motion said, "make a greater contribution towards an extension of world trade and cooperation, a quickened development of the commonwealth and our agricultural industry."

The sponsors were Ellis Smith, Harold Davie, Thomas Brown and Emrys Hughes. All are Laborites, although not important or necessarily influential members of the party.

Two Unionist members of Parliament also submitted a motion calling for a 25 per cent cut in the salaries of all ministers and members of Parliament.

The revolt broke out while Attlee and his ministers met with other Labor members of Parliament in preparation for the two-day debate on the government program starting tomorrow in Commons.

Expect Record Attendance At Commerce Chamber Meet

MONTREAL (BUP)—Members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce began their 20th annual meeting in Montreal today with a warning from president, Henry Birks, that only international co-operation would solve the world's trade problems.

"Unless Britain, the U.S. and Canada can get their heads together to find the answer to the deterioration in international trade, then it will too bad for the western world," Mr. Birks said in a prepared statement issued before the sessions opened.

He said problems facing Canada as a result of the teetering world trade situation could not be solved "by government alone."

"The best efforts of business, labor and government are all needed if Canada is to meet the challenge and the promise of her future," he said.

A record attendance of some 800 delegates from all 10 provinces was predicted for the meeting, which will be addressed by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of the European Recovery Program.

Asks Red China Prove Freedom From Russia

OTTAWA (BUP) — China's Communist government would not be recognized by Canada until it was shown that it was "independent of external control" by any other state, External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson told the Commons this afternoon.

Mr. Pearson laid down two conditions which, he said, must be met before Canada could recognize the government of China, or of any other foreign country. These were:

1. The area which the government in question claimed to control must be "reasonably clearly defined" as to limits.
2. It must be proved that the government was "independent of the external control" by any outside state.

144 Men Laid Off T.C.A. Maintenance

Replying to Angus MacInnis (C.C.F.-Vancouver East) in the Commons, Mr. Howe said the maintenance staff had been organized some time ago to service T.C.A.'s trans-Pacific service. However, it was later decided Canadian Pacific Airlines would be given the franchise for the trans-Pacific service.

Floor Prices Ended

TOKYO (AP) — Gen. MacArthur today abolished floor prices under Japanese exports, effective tomorrow. The price system has been in effect since August, 1947, when Japan resumed private trade. It was designed to maintain export prices at world market levels and to prevent "dumping" of goods abroad in the prewar pattern.

Castlegar Blasts May Be Verigin Anniversary Show

CASTLEGAR, B.C. (BUP) — Town officials and police in the heart of the Doukhobor country at Castlegar feared today that Sunday's attempted dynamiting of seven power lines might be the beginning of demonstrations marking the 25th anniversary of the death of Peter Verigin (The Lordy), Doukhobor leader.

Verigin was killed in a train bombing Oct. 29, 1924. Since then his tomb has been blasted amateurishly several times, with much of it being destroyed. Ten attempts have been made to wreck the tomb.

Extra provincial police officers were coming into the Doukhobor area to investigate the attempted dynamiting and watch for further outbreaks.

Two senior provincial police officers were spearheading the hunt for those responsible for the alleged Doukhobor dynamiting of seven power lines, carrying power to the largest non-ferrous metaliferous plant in the world at Trail, B.C.

The huge Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. at Trail would have been cut off from power if the dynamiting had been successful, police reported today.

A town official here said authorities were keeping in close touch with the situation in case the Doukhobors made other demonstrations marking Verigin's death.

Nehru Lays Wreath At War Memorial; Visits St. Laurent

OTTAWA (BUP) — Indian Prime Minister Pandit Nehru laid a wreath at the Canadian War Memorial here today in a simple and informal ceremony.

His party drove up to the memorial, situated in the centre of the city in a cavalcade of five cars. Defence Minister Brooke Claxton accompanied the Indian Prime Minister and explained the history of the memorial to him.

Also present for the occasion were the chiefs of staff of the Canadian armed services; Indian High Commissioner S. K. Kirpalani; Sir Girma Bajpai, secretary-general to the Indian External Affairs Ministry; Brig. Dilip Chaudhuri, Indian military attaché in Washington, and Unni Nayar, press attaché with the visiting party.

Three scarlet-coated Mounties were on guard round the memorial and a crowd of about 100 had gathered under the chill October sun to watch. The wreath which Nehru laid was made up of flowers in the Indian national colors, white, saffron and green.

LUNCH WITH ST. LAURENT

The whole occasion took only about three minutes. Afterwards, Nehru drove to the Parliament Buildings to talk with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

The two statesmen lunched together in the Prime Minister's office in the Commons. The only other guests were Bajpai and External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Dispute May Tie Up Ship

The luxury cruise ship Corsair, formerly financier J. P. Morgan's yacht which was converted here in 1947, is back in Victoria today as the centre of a complicated union-owner dispute which may result in her being laid up by her owners.

A series of statements by company officials, and union representatives here and in Seattle suggests a triangle dispute involving Canadian and U.S. seamen's unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the Pacific Cruise Lines, owners of the ship.

In Seattle, from where the ship sailed to Victoria, union officials threatened the ship would be picketed by A.F.L. Canadian affiliates, but here in Victoria early this afternoon there was no sign of a picket line although Canadian crewmen, members of the A.F.L.-affiliated Seafarers' International Union, are in the city.

The 500,000 striking steelworkers received unexpected support Monday from a powerful "Big Steel" stockholder and from the C.I.O. electrical workers' union which has sworn enmity against Murray.

The big stockholder who backed the steelworkers was James W. Girard, U.S. Ambassador to Germany in World War I, who said his holdings in U.S. Steel were greater than the shares held by the majority of the firm's board.

He said U.S. Steel's failure to accept a Presidential fact-finding board's recommendation of industry-paid insurance and pension benefits constituted a "diservice to the employees, the shareholders and the country."

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission confirmed today it is planning a $300,000,000 expansion of its atom bomb-making facilities.

Of this amount, the commission said, $250,000,000 would be used for the atomic program and $50,000,000 for the Tennessee Valley Authority to supply power for atomic plants here.

The commission's statement confirmed earlier reports from Washington of the proposed expansion.

Production capacity will be expanded at Oak Ridge and Hanford, Wash.

Oak Ridge is the centre of uranium-producing plants. Hanford is the hub of plutonium operations. Both are key materials for making atomic bombs.

Contract Awarded For Water System In Brentwood Area

Trustees of the Brentwood Waterworks District and Hugh Brockington, engineer, met Monday evening and awarded a contract to Garner Bros. of Duncan for the installation of a water system for the Brentwood area.

The amount of the contract was not released.

Placing of the contract is the outcome of action taken earlier this month by property-owners of the Brentwood and Moodyville districts, who voted by an overwhelming majority to empower the trustees to proceed with the project.

A bond issue of $100,000 will be floated to finance the water scheme, to be paid off in 20 years.

A reservoir of 100,000 gallon capacity will be built on the Maber farm and the 12-inch main from Elk Lake will be tapped to supply 200,000 gallons of water daily. Water mains will be laid along Sluggett Road to West Saanich Road, thence down Marchants Road to Beach Drive and on to Moodyville.

With the award of the contract, an early start of work on the project is expected. It is hoped to have the water supply in operation by next summer.

Season's First Bad Fog Causes Much Distress

By BRITISH UNITED PRESS

The thickest west coast fog of the season shrouded Vancouver, the Lower Mainland and southern Vancouver Island Monday night and today, causing a bus head-on collision, one crash landing by an aircraft, and numerous traffic accidents.

At Richmond, near Vancouver, two buses, one loaded with about 15 persons, collided head-on at 7.45 a.m. today. Two persons were hospitalized, and half a dozen others slightly hurt. Both buses were thrown on their sides on opposite sides of the road, and an automobile smashed into the rear end of one of the vehicles.

PLANE MISHAP

Pilot Lloyd C. Clarke, 30, of Burlington, Wash., made a crash landing with his light monoplane at North Pender Island in the Gulf of Georgia Monday night. He was en route from Burlington to Vancouver Island.

A 10,000-ton ship also was a victim of the fog, going aground in the Fraser River. She was expected to be freed at high tide this afternoon.

Police also reported several minor traffic accidents caused by the heavy fog.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

DISCIPLINE AND DELINQUENCY

IN THE COURSE of a chat with a retired teacher not long ago on the subject of the influence of crime comics on the behavior of youngsters, he digressed to make some interesting observations on the relation between discipline and delinquency.

And declared, in no uncertain terms, that in the course of a long experience with teen-age boys he had learned that the youngster who was taught discipline—and self-discipline—from an early age rarely, if ever, became a delinquent in the criminal sense.

They were full of mischief, it is true. No healthy, normal boy should be expected to be otherwise. But they stopped at mischief. Not for them the wanton cruelty, the sadism and the contempt for other people's rights which so often actuated the conduct of the undisciplined lad, he claimed.

SCORNFUL OF 'PSYCH'

AND HE ALSO waxed somewhat scornful of the latter-day tendency to look upon psychiatry and psychology as the sole answer to the problem of juvenile delinquency, declaring that these sciences were no substitute for discipline, except in rare cases.

In his opinion, while he did not believe in too much emphasis on corporal punishment, there was still sound merit in the application of the old Biblical theory of "Spare the rod and spoil the child," and recalled many a highly-respected, successful businessman of today to whom he had administered a "tanning" in his youth.

"To hear some people talking glibly in today's psychological jargon, that 'tanning' should have so warped and injured those pupils of mine that they would have 'gone to the dogs' instead of growing up into fine citizens and an asset to the community," he noted.

VIEW CONFIRMED

ODDLY ENOUGH, that Victoria man's somewhat old-fashioned view—as some people will consider it—was confirmed in an address given by a woman teacher before the annual meeting of the British Association, held in Newcastle this summer.

After 20 years of experience with 'naughty' children in Glasgow schools, she had reached the conclusion that psychology is not a substitute for character, nor is psychological treatment a substitute for basic training.

And told the association that psychologists would do a great disservice not only to their profession but to the community at large if they used psychological patterns and theories to defeat the ethical standards evolved by centuries of effort and sacrifice.

PERNICIOUS TENDENCY

THAT SCOTTISH school-ma'am deplored, as pernicious, the tendency to consider all forms of anti-social behavior—whether delinquency, laziness, or mere selfishness—as symptoms of mental illness or unbalance.

Only about 10 per cent of the cases of juvenile delinquency would benefit by the extension of psychological services, she claimed. She further expressed the belief that the parent and teacher are far more important in the child's life than any psychologist. Yet parents and teachers are continually being told that if they exercise authority they will damage the child's personality.

RESTRAINING HAND

BECAUSE OF THAT attitude, she concluded, "among our more hardened young delinquents reaction to authority is now one of contempt rather than rebellion, and many of our more innocent delinquents are such because they have never known a firm, restraining hand."

"We have only to look at the type of delinquency which is most prevalent—theft and malicious mischief—to see that many delinquents need not psychological treatment but good social training and discipline and someone to respect."

That may not please the psychologists, but to me it sounds uncommonly like commonsense!

McCullough To Join Saskatoon Quakers

REGINA (CP)—Centre Chuck McCullough will join Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League immediately. Settlement of his case involves the transfer of Norm Blackett, a defenceman who started this season with Quakers, to Regina Caps of the W.C.S.H.L. At a meeting last Thursday the registration committee of the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association ruled McCullough Regina property because he had signed a contract with the Quakers before getting his release from the Caps.

The Quakers appealed to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to consider the case. Later they withdrew their appeal, met with Cap officials here and were given McCullough in the deal which sent Blackett, who played with Spokane of the Western International League last winter, to Regina.

For Good Heating Results

The first thing to do is to get your furnace as clean as a whistle is the advice of the new coal heating service department of the Victoria Wood & Coal Company, 217 Pemberton Bldg., G2441.

A dirty furnace is a coal waster. And the best time to clean up and clean out your furnace is early fall when you aren't using it.

You can't tell a dirty furnace by looking at the outside of it. It is the inside of a furnace that gets all fouled up.

To illustrate what dirt can do to slow down a furnace, take the simple matter of fly-ash on its heating surfaces.

This fly-ash acts as an insulator five times as powerful as asbestos.

If the heating surfaces of a boiler have an accumulation of 1-16 of an inch of fly-ash, there is a loss of heating efficiency of 26.2 per cent. Or 1/8 inch of deposit will cause a loss of 45.3 per cent.

So, there's no fooling about the good sense of getting the season with a furnace that is spic and span inside and out—especially inside.

Church Tells Czech Clergy To Swear Loyalty To Govt.

PRAGUE (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Roman Catholic bishops backed down in the bitter church-state fight today and told their priests to swear loyalty to the Communist-led government to stay out of jail.

The Catholic hierarchy told the priests they may accept their salaries from the state and swear loyalty to the government—a move they had fought so bitterly in recent weeks that some 300 priests have been reported arrested.

The bishops' new stand, declaring that they still "regretted" the recent enactment of the church control law, was expressed in a statement to the country's 7,000 Roman Catholic priests and made available to western newspapermen.

The bishops said they are allowing priests to comply with the law because they would be open to arrest and prosecution if they did not.

Alexei Cepicka, Communist minister of justice, has declared that anyone who opposed the new law would be "broken as an enemy of the state."

The new law, which gives the government control of appointments, finances and administration of all churches, was passed by Parliament Oct. 14 and will become effective Nov. 1.

The bishops' statement to the priests said:

"If you accept you do so only because of the pressure of external circumstances. It is necessary to defend you against possible consequences and save you for the spiritual care of the faithful."

Only last week the bishops had stated that it would be "unmanly" to accept the higher salaries proffered under the church law "while thousands of believers and other citizens suffer in prison and work camps."

COMMITTEE PLANS

Now the bishops went even further in their new, more conciliatory attitude to the state.

They offered to participate in church divisions of the regional national committees, the executive bodies which administer governmental affairs for cities and districts.

It was also reported without confirmation that church and state leaders might try to get together for a resumption of negotiations for a new church-state agreement.

Negotiations were broken off last spring. The bishops previously had said they were willing to resume them only if the state called off its "hostile campaign" against the church.

The bishops' statement was signed by 11 bishops, headed by Archbishop Joseph Matocha of Olomouc, and an Apostolic administrator.

Two Lose Lives, Eight Injured In Prairie Crash

SASKATOON (CP)—Two persons are dead and eight others in hospital following a head-on collision Monday night of two automobiles near Dana, Sask., 52 miles east of here.

The dead: Mrs. Ida Mouval of Seva Beach, Alta., and her daughter, Geneva, about 18.

In hospital at Humboldt, Sask., are John Goetz of Plumas, Man., driver of one car; his wife, Caroline, and three of their children—Carol, Margaret and Elizabeth. Occupants of the Manitoba car escaped serious injury.

Also in hospital at Humboldt is six-year-old Roger Mouval, son of the dead woman. He is reported in fair condition.

An ambulance brought Mrs. Clara Miller, 44, of Hazelton, Alta., and 18-month Terry Mouval to the Saskatoon Hospital. Mrs. Miller, suffering head lacerations, is reported responding well to treatment. Terry Mouval is not in serious condition, although minor injuries are suspected.

Passers-by, who arrived after the accident occurred, said the cars met at the crest of a steep, icy hill.

Condition Of Boy Injured In Accident Critical

Condition of seven-year-old Murray Easton, 3441 Bonair Place, badly injured in an accident in Saanich Monday afternoon, is still critical.

Saanich police said the boy was playing on Shelbourne Street, near Knight Avenue, with two other boys when in collision with a car driven by Sgt. Thomas Stevenson, 2109 Vancouver Street, a city policeman.

The physician reported Murray suffered a ruptured liver, three fractured ribs, and a fracture-dislocation of one of his vertebrae.

Police attending the accident said that Stevenson was proceeding north when the accident occurred. The car was impounded because of lack of proof of financial responsibility.

According to Saanich police, Sgt. Stevenson swung hard to avoid hitting two of the youngsters when they suddenly ran out from the curb into the path of the car.

One of Murray's playmates was Bobby Grieg, Bonair Place.

Court In Camera To Hear Woman's Story Of Assault

Stipendiary Magistrate A. I. Thomas this morning ordered the court cleared to hear the testimony of the 33-year-old Latvian woman who has charged four Victoria boys with criminally assaulting her Oct. 16 near Thetis Lake.

Evidence in the preliminary hearing, being held in the provincial courthouse, is expected to be concluded today.

The charged are John Frederick Erickson, 19, of Hazelton, Robert William Paterson and John James Norton, all aged 19 years.

W. H. M. Haldane, Crown prosecutor, asked for the clearance of the court to hear the woman's story.

Although she can speak English fairly well, an interpreter accompanied her into the courtroom to aid her in telling her story.

Dr. E. L. McNiven said the woman was in an extremely shocked condition when he examined her at the Jubilee Hospital on the morning of the 16th. As a result of his examination, Dr. McNiven said he came to the conclusion the woman had been criminally assaulted.

CHANGE IN LABELS ONLY

YESTERDAY'S CONTESTS IN EIGHT federal constituencies did not materially alter the distribution of voting strength in the House of Commons. Three seats won by straight Liberals in the general election of last June in Quebec, and one in British Columbia, were retained and three were captured from the government's standard-bearers by two Independent Liberals and one Independent. It is noteworthy, however, that the three who won victories over the official nominees announced during the campaign their intention—if elected—to support the administration of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

The other eastern riding, that of Toronto-Greenwood, traditionally Conservative since its establishment, did not change hands. Mr. J. M. Macdonnell, the opposition party's able financial critic, who was defeated last June in Parry Sound-Muskoka, headed the poll. The late Mr. J. E. McMillin, in the three-cornered contest five months ago, rolled up 10,454 votes against the Liberal's 10,281, and the C.C.F. candidate's 8,771.

Although it was almost a foregone conclusion that the British Columbia constituency of New Westminster—held for two decades by Mr. (now Senator) Tom Reid—would not change its political allegiance, not many expected that the standard-bearer of the C.C.F. would finish with more votes than the nominee of the Progressive Conservative Party, or that Independent Elmore Philpott would end up in second place with only 2,800 ballots less than former Mayor William Mott who scored such a decisive victory for the governing party at Ottawa.

Incidentally, congratulations are in order, both for Mr. Mott and Mr. Philpott, and while we find ourselves in direct conflict with a good deal of the latter's political philosophy and many of his theses in respect of international affairs, none would seriously doubt his honesty and sincerity of purpose in everything he undertakes. And the fact that yesterday marked his third unsuccessful bid for parliamentary honors—his first was as a Liberal, his second as a C.C.F.-er, and the latest as an Independent—he can point to a substantial following in the riding which has again reaffirmed its desire to be represented at Ottawa by a Liberal.

LADYSMITH WANTS TO KNOW

THE LADYSMITH DISTRICT P.T.A., we are informed, wants more "concrete information" in children's school report cards. In an effort to obtain that data, it has asked the teachers' association of the district to "discuss the matter of elementary school report cards, with a view to the possibility of giving concrete information, at least once a year, on the basic subjects—reading, writing, language and arithmetic."

The action taken by the up-island parents is one which will have the sympathetic understanding of family heads in Victoria. The present report form, scientific as it may be, leaves fathers and mothers somewhat perplexed. Without more detailed explanation from the teachers in charge, they just cannot tell how their children are progressing. They may be informed, for instance, that a son or daughter "is showing satisfactory growth" along certain lines, but they must take the teacher's word for it. Nothing on the card indicates the actual standard of achievement.

An explanation was given at Ladysmith that more than scholastic achievement was the objective of education today, that a "well-adjusted, socially-accepted child" was the desired end project of the school system. That, of course, is an ideal to which all will subscribe. But the nebulous indication of progress presented by the current report card does not give concrete proof of a child's advancement in orthodox studies.

The conscientious parent seeks to assist the child who is weak in certain subjects. Weakness could, at one time, be determined from the reports. It would be an unfortunate development if parents, confronted with the unspecific record now issued by schools, lost interest in the matter. And nothing is better calculated to create disinterest than the repetitious issue of forms which are not understood.

PUFFBALLS AT TEN PAGES

PROVIDED NO ONE IS SERIOUSLY injured, the re-establishment of duelling by critics and figures associated with the drama may contain some elements of entertainment value. But we are disappointed in the most recent report, from Paris has come the news that Art Buchwald, motion-picture critic of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune, is awaiting a visit from seconds of U.S. film-producer Walter Wanger, whom he has challenged.

Mr. Wanger, the item explains, was incensed by the Buchwald criticism of "Joan of Arc" and described the critic as "incompetent and immature." On the basis of some criticisms and some reactions from victims, that seems mild enough. And if the pen is mightier than the sword, isn't recourse to a duel something of an anticlimax? However, if honor must be satisfied, we suggest either puffballs at 10 paces, or squirting fountain pens across Mr. Buchwald's desk—if he has a desk.

A RISKY GAME

IT WAS APPROPRIATE THAT THE laying of a cornerstone of the secretariat building of the United Nations in New York City should have formed the background for President Truman's remarks yesterday on the atomic bomb. For the atomic bomb no doubt will provide the most important problems with which the world organization must eventually cope, embodying as it does the greatest promise of hope and the largest measure of fear now existing for mankind.

Why international control of this tremendous force has not yet been established is a question that can best be answered by the Soviet Union. All the other nations most closely concerned with the production and regulation of atomic energy are agreed on a method of procedure that would guarantee the maximum of world security. Only Russia—with, of course, support from her satellites—has dissented. The United States, the nation most obviously in the van of atomic armament, has offered to submit to full international control of all atomic energy projects, from the mining of uranium ore to the utilization of atomic energy and fissionable products. In this proposal she has been echoed by Britain and Canada. It was an offer unprecedented in history, in that any independent nation should be willing to forego sovereignty to this extent. But it was made in good faith and in the hope that agreement could be reached.

As Mr. Truman pointed out, "It is the only plan so far developed that would meet the technical requirements of control, and at the same time promote the peaceful development of atomic energy on a co-operative basis." The Russian counter-proposal insisted that all atomic bomb stocks should be destroyed before any world plan could be implemented. The Soviets objected, too, to the sweeping provisions for international inspection which were a cardinal feature of the American plan. Without agreement on such inspection by a neutral global body no atomic treaties would be of much avail. This is particularly the case in view of Russia's "iron curtain" tactics in post-war diplomacy.

There the matter stands. The invitation is still open, but until Russia accepts she can have only herself to blame if the atomic armament race continues, piling up tinder for a possible conflagration.

THE NEHRU MESSAGE

IN ADDITION TO PRODUCING A graceful exchange of compliments between Canada and India, the visit of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru to Ottawa has underscored a point of major significance to western democratic assessments of conditions in Asia. In the Indian Prime Minister's words:

"To regard the present unsettled state of south-east Asia as a result or a part of ideological conflict would be a dangerous error. . . . The troubles and discontents of this part of the world, and indeed of the greater part of Asia, are the result of obstructed freedom and dire poverty. The remedy is to accelerate the advent of freedom and to remove want. If this is achieved Asia will become a powerful factor in stability and peace. The philosophy of Asia has been and is a philosophy of peace."

These are the remarks of a man whose background, intellectual capabilities and scholarship have been wedded to the practicalities of effecting a working reconciliation among peoples and faiths frequently considered irreconcilable. Nehru does not have to depend on untried theories to formulate his point of view. He has been subjected to the problems of leadership in a land torn by strife. He has dealt in actualities. He is, moreover, a man who has repudiated the extremists of both fascism, in German and Japanese guise, and Communism in its Moscow form. Above all, he has been on the spot in India and has seen a substantial part of the Asian problem without the distortion imposed by any ideological screen.

At a time when so many fumbling approaches are being made toward a means of avoiding an irreparable breach between western democracies and Asiatic countries, the Nehru message assumes exceptional importance. In China, for instance, much of the credit for Communist advances must be given to the manner in which the forces of Mao have given promise to the Chinese of overcoming the results "of obstructed freedom and dire poverty."

A similar Red wave might have engulfed India had leaders of Nehru's stamp been lacking. There, however, withdrawal of British imperial control has been followed by the remarkable development of friendly co-operation, replacing the bitter Indian nationalism which grew up prior to political liberation. In place of a hostile sub-continent arrayed against them, members of the Commonwealth now have a friendly power with which to deal—a power composed of almost one-fifth of the world's population, and one impressed with the philosophy of peace.

The object lesson of India under Nehru is one which should not be lost on western democracies now studying ways of achieving a modus vivendi with other parts of the Orient.

Give a woman time and she can find most anything in her handbag except a house and lot.

Cabled from Bonn, Germany

THE EAST

IN THE TWO preceding article I discussed the relationship of the Adenauer government at Bonn with France and the West and with eastern Germany. Here I may make a few observations on the possibility of a settlement towards the east.

The Oder-Neisse line, which has meant the annexation of large eastern territories by Poland and Russia is perhaps the greatest and the most dangerous consequence of the war in Europe. No German who hopes to have a political future in Germany, can or will accept these losses as final. Even if he were willing personally to do so he could not accept them because of the millions of refugees, who are a natural prey for the nationalists and the Nazis, and because the eastern agricultural territories cannot permanently be divorced economically from the industrial west.

BUT BEYOND THAT these eastern territories are the levers by which the Soviet Union dominates Polish-German relations. The Germans cannot recover the territory without Soviet consent except by war which would ruin them once more. The Poles can never hold the territory securely because they know that the Soviets always have the possibility of making an alliance with Germany by another partition of Poland.

The question then is whether a German-Polish settlement, which both could find tolerable, is even conceivable.

From what I have learned I think it is just barely not inconceivable. It is just barely not inconceivable on the hypothesis that the Soviet Union—for reasons of its own, among them its greater hopes in Asia—is in fact in the process of a military withdrawal from Germany and the centre of Europe.

IN THAT EVENT Poland and Germany would recover, if not complete independence, then at least a very much greater independence than either of them now enjoys. They might prefer an honorable compromise to the prospect of an everlasting quarrel which would ruin them both.

That compromise might be found in a joint neutralization of the territory. It is said, I think, on good authority that the Poles have not completely repopulated these territories. There is still much room in them. There are many deserted farms. There are many vacant jobs.

THE GERMANS on the other hand, must find a place to settle the refugees. There is not room for them in western Germany or even in Germany up to the Oder-Neisse line. Thus there is a mutual interest, if the political relations could be made favorable, in an arrangement under which some or all of this territory would have a special status: one where a mixed German and Polish population could be brought together.

Such an arrangement would demand immense statesmanship to achieve it. But I believe it could be made acceptable in Germany as long as the dominant power there remains, as it is at the moment, non-militarist, federalist, and in the main hopeful about the revival of Germany within a united Europe.

Nothing ventured, nothing gained. One is entitled, I think, to feel some hope and to act accordingly.

Equality

IN ATLANTA, GA., THE OTHER DAY Governor Herman Talmadge, apostle of "white supremacy," touched a new low in extremism when he denounced a move to allow negroes equality of educational opportunities with their fellow white citizens. Discussing the action of 18 negro parents in Irwin County who seek for their children the facilities afforded the whites, the governor declared the state would fight "this dastardly effort with all the strength and resources we have."

THE GEORGIA governor's campaign to preserve segregation draws attention to an article in last week's Saturday Evening Post dealing with the re-emergence of the Ku Klux Klan. The article noted the manner in which some politicians used the K.K.K. for their own purposes and, significantly enough, mentioned the Talmadge family name. It forecast a relapse into oblivion of the nightshirt riders in view of the orders given to them to remove their masks. It mentioned the manner in which the "hoods" brought discredit on certain communities, and noted the fact that outrages against other races and sects served only to emphasize the need for the introduction of civil rights legislation in the territories concerned.

THE TALMADGE denunciation, it appears, will serve the same purpose. A nation which Lincoln described as one "conceived in Liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal" cannot retain that concept and find the Talmadge idea anything but repugnant. And a world which has rightly assessed the value of figures like Dr. Ralph Bunche can have scant reason to agree with the super-racism of the Governor of Georgia—A.H.S.

I would stress that productivity or unemployment is the real choice today.—Sir Stafford Cripps, British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Another Bomb That Needs To Be Controlled

As Our Readers See It

DONNA GRESCOE CONCERT

The forthcoming recital by Donna Grescoe of Winnipeg, the brilliant young Canadian violinist, on November 1, is an important highlight to the musical life of our city. The Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, under whose auspices Miss Grescoe appears, considers it an honor to assist this young Canadian-born artist on the way to success, and also to help make her known to Canadian people. It was with this idea in mind that the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs undertook this project of a trans-Canada tour for Miss Grescoe, thus presenting her in 29 cities across Canada.

When the project was first suggested regarding Miss Grescoe's appearance in Victoria on November 1, in order that no overlapping should occur, the Victoria Club on May 14 notified the Hilker Attractions, Vancouver, by letter, as to the date. It is now regrettable to note that Mr. Hilker has announced the opening of his series of attractions at the Royal Victoria Theatre on November 1, the same evening as the Donna Grescoe concert.

Under the circumstances we can only appeal to the music loving citizens of Victoria to give this young Canadian violinist the support she deserves when she appears at the Victoria High School on Tuesday evening, November 1.

THAT OLD CONTROVERSY

It would seem that there are still some people who believe that if a statement is repeated often enough some will accept it, no matter how fallacious or foolish it may be. Once again the old argument refuted scores of times has made its appearance, and we are told that to prohibit a thing is to create a desire for it. A moment's consideration must reveal that this is false in principle and in practice. It should be obvious to intelligent people that every law on the statute books is a prohibitory law, implicitly or explicitly. We have a law against counterfeiting money. Does this prohibitory law encourage counterfeiting? We have a law against bigamy. Does this prohibitory law inspire men to rush to the altar with any number of women? Why must people make themselves ridiculous?

As for those who tell us that increased outlets for the sale of alcoholic beverages do not increase the consumption of liquor and the crimes that inevitably follow, we commend the reading and study of a signed statement in Time Magazine, dated Sept. 19, found on Page Four. As those who visit Los Angeles know, liquor can be purchased legally in almost any block in the downtown area. Note what Mr. J. A. Ford has to say about the consequences:

"Today, as one of five elected officials responsible for all public welfare work in Los Angeles, I find . . . nearly one-half of all our arrests are for drunkenness. Many of these men are arrested scores of times in a year—to what end? We have sponsored a duplicate of Yale's Alcoholic Clinic at the University of California, Los Angeles, for three successive years, and in desperation are calling on medical science, social experts and religious agencies for some effective means of solving or ameliorating a social and economic situation whose capacity to keep on producing human scum and bums seems undiminished. (signed) John Anson Ford, Third District Supervisor, Los Angeles."

It does seem incredible that when some of our people return from visiting cities with conditions such as those mentioned above they tell us how ideal the unrestricted sale of liquor is, and recommend that we adopt a plan that has not only dismally failed where it has been tried, but has admittedly gotten out of hand altogether. What was wrong with these visitors that they could not see the facts as they are stated by responsible city officials?

AN IDEA

I have sent the following letter to the City Hall:

"In connection with the announced plans to seek authorization to engage an architect to prepare sketch plans for a new city hall, I would like to respectfully submit an alternate suggestion which I believe will be of definite benefit to the people of Victoria."

"Whereas the capital city of one of our country's leading provinces should certainly be entitled to a city hall building of the highest architectural standards and artistic considerations, I propose that a Canada-wide or even an international contest be announced for the new Victoria city hall. I am convinced that the details of such a contest can easily be worked out on a friendly basis with either the head office of the Royal Canadian Architectural Institute or the local or B.C. chapter. The cost of this proposal should certainly not exceed by more than a small amount the cost of the sketch plans already in mind."

"Rather than increasing the expenditures required, I believe that my suggestion would in the end not only result in a building of higher merit but in view of the Canada-wide publicity which would result from the contest (extending also to the United States and other countries if the contest is made international) there would be an actual saving of money."

"Certainly no precedent as far as other leading cities of the world are concerned would be established by following this suggestion. The famous city halls of such cities as Stockholm and Portsmouth, other buildings such as the present United Nations Headquarters now under construction in New York, have resulted from architectural contests as per my proposal; and I can see no reason why the city of Victoria and indeed the people of this Province would not directly benefit from such a contest."

A Frenchman Counsels Caution

By JULES MOCH, French Minister of the Interior

THERE are many references these days to the entry of Germany into the Council of Europe. This idea I find disturbing. I am nearer to the opinion of Herriot on the subject than that of Churchill. I shall try to explain my personal views.

STRAIGHT PATH

Germany seems to have neither learned nor forgotten since her defeat. Her path led straight from Bismarck to William II, then to Hitler. I am waiting to be shown that this line has been changed since 1945. But Germany is the prey of nationalism, today as much as yesterday.

The 18 million Nazi voters of 1933—of whom about a half still live in the western zones—make up part of the two and a half million supporters acquired by the German nationalist parties which are growing much more rapidly than was the case with the Nazi party four years after 1919. The rest of the Nazis have infiltrated into the parties of the centre and the left, certain leaders of which made singularly nationalistic speeches during the election campaign.

Everything seems to prove that Germany has neither measured nor regretted the crimes of nazism.

MAD TO ACCEPT

If we then envisage the integration into the Council of Europe of a Germany equal in rights with other nations, that is to say delivered from the occupation, free to arm and then to betray the allies, we should be mad to accept such a solution.

If, on the other hand, it is a question of admitting to the present European Assembly which is temporary because it represents only the western observers from a federated Germany, itself provisional because the eastern provinces have been cut off, and if this admission amounts to a sort of collective control by Europeans of the territory between the Rhine and the Elbe, then this possibility could be envisaged with all the prudence demanded by the last two wars.

TAKE CARE

As was said recently by the great German writer, Thomas Mann, on returning from his first trip to Germany since 1933, "Let France take care! The Germans have not changed. Everywhere I have seen being sown the seeds of a nationalism as dangerous as that of Hitler."

Thomas Mann is right. We should be unworthy of our dead if we were to open our arms in confidence to a Germany which has still not made the necessary effort to understand and to repent.

THE FIERCE quarrel between Moscow and the politically-rebellious Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia seems to be mounting to a crisis.

Precisely how the Kremlin intends to apply the screws is still a matter of conjecture. However, Misha Pijade, member of the Yugoslav politburo, appears to have summed the matter up in moderate terms indeed when he told his people Sunday that "we are steadily sailing in danger."

Activities of Russia and her satellites seem to support unconfirmed reports reaching the United States State Department that the satellites, with Soviet backing, are planning a guerrilla campaign against Tito. This would be patterned after the Communist war which was waged against Greece so long but now has been suspended, perhaps because of impending action against Yugoslavia.

MASTER PLAN

The idea of such a guerrilla offensive would be to establish a base inside Yugoslavia and inspire a revolt among Yugoslavs. This base would serve as the capital of a new Red republic.

In short, Tito ostensibly would be overthrown by a rebellion from within his own country. Once his regime was disposed of Yugoslavia would again become a loyal follower of Moscow.

So far as Moscow is concerned it has made no secret of its intention to crack down on Tito in due course. Many of its moves have been made quite openly.

As far back as Oct. 3 the marshal told his army officers that Russia had been "forcing its irons" against Yugoslavia. This was at the conclusion of Yugoslav army manoeuvres and Tito, obviously pleased with their success, said to his men:

"We are prepared to defend this country until the last breath, regardless of whether the attack comes. . . . No one has the right, regardless of who he may be, to endanger a small people."

The middle of this month the Yugoslav government accused neighboring Romania of frequent violations of the Yugoslav border, and of attempts to "provoke armed incidents and unrest." Similar notes were sent about the same time to Russia, Bulgaria and Hungary.

While Tito's army likely is strong enough to take care of border warfare, he obviously might not be able to repel a wholesale invasion by the Soviet bloc. However, such an invasion might set the drums of war rolling the call for another world upheaval—and there are few who believe Russia would challenge fate that far. Nobody wants another global conflict.

OPTIMISM OVERDONE

London (Ont.) Free Press
A former editor has left an estate of $235,000 to help "out-law war, abolish poverty, unveil superstition and secure justice." The mystery of how an editor could leave that much money is only equaled by the optimism which feels that aims as lofty as these can be attained so cheaply.

FINE FREEDOM

Which suggests that this association "in addition to not being 'amateur' is not even independent, but jumps when the professional hockey moguls tell it to."

STOP THIS QUICKLY

Winnipeg Free Press
A new modesty—it might in this case be called weak mindedness—appears to have overcome the Manitoba Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation. It is exhibited in the party organ of Oct. 8.

"In making comparison between the C.C.F. and the Liberal-Conservative coalitionists we do not for a minute claim that we have a greater mastery of the arts of government."

Before this kind of thing is allowed to go much further, Mr. Hanford had better purge the viper nestling in his political bosom; or the next thing we will be told is that the C.C.F. is not the sole repository of political wisdom, honesty, courage and humanity in Canada.

And then the C.C.F. will be just another political party and we will have to look around for another Messiah.

Esquimalt Agrees To Idea Of Having One Building Code

Esquimalt Council at its meeting Monday night agreed in principle to the idea of having a uniform building code throughout the Greater Victoria area.

Such a code is being campaigned for by the Victoria Chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers.

At the present time, each of the four separate municipalities in the area has its own building by-law. While each is designed for the construction of safe, comfortable and sanitary buildings, all differ in the wording and in detail of work.

The Society of Residential Appraisers believes home construction throughout the area could best be regulated by one uniform code. It is asking, therefore, that councils of Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay get together and agree on such a code. Esquimalt by endorsing the suggestion has opened the way for the other councils to act on the proposal.

Garbage By-law Provides For No Special Privileges

The question of garbage cans came before Esquimalt Council at its meeting Monday night.

Last year, councillors passed a by-law requiring all citizens to place their refuse in a standard container to facilitate work of collectors. At the time, the subject produced much lively debate in the council chamber.

Monday night the issue was revived when Ed. Fulcher, municipal superintendent of works, asked for direction from council in regard to enforcing the garbage by-law. Citizens have converted to the standard garbage containers 100 per cent but certain commercial premises in the municipality continue to use old oil drums as containers.

It was pointed out that while one man can handle a regulation car quite easily by himself, it takes two to move an oil drum and three to lift it. Thus, collection work is slowed down.

Council considered whether or not commercial premises should be given any special privileges in this regard, but finally decided the by-law should be enforced and that they, too, should acquire standard containers.

The by-law provides that where containers other than those authorized as used, garbage collection service will be suspended.

Collections are made once a week at the present time within the municipality.

Renewed Optimism Esquimalt Will Get Federal Assistance

Esquimalt councillors at their meeting Monday night expressed new optimism that financial aid in the form of a federal government grant is forthcoming to the municipality.

If such is the case, councillors will have no difficulty pondering what to do with it. They reached agreement on this point at their meeting Monday: that the money go into public works.

Esquimalt has long sought some form of government aid as recompense for the Crown's vast holdings in the municipality on which no taxes are paid.

It has been pointed out time and time again by municipal officials that the waterfront property in the municipality, which under normal circumstances would produce the largest share of tax revenue, is practically all held by the Department of National Defence, which pays nothing to the municipal treasury.

MONEY LOAN

Councillors a month ago considered the possibility of floating a money loan to provide funds to undertake the vast program of public works which needs doing in the municipality. Municipal treasurer J. W. Allan has since advised council that such a procedure would be very dangerous.

So for the moment, at least, this idea is being shelved. And council members are hoping and praying that a federal grant will soon be provided as an answer to their problem.

Resignation of W. H. Walsh as clerk and stenographer of the Esquimalt police court was accepted by Esquimalt Council on Monday night. Mr. Walsh stated in his resignation he had obtained a better position.

Council will consider applications for the court stenographer's job at the next meeting and will appoint a replacement for Mr. Walsh.

Seven Of 8 M.P.'s-Elect Support Liberal Government

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government, a big winner in the June 27 general election, retained four and lost three seats Monday in eight federal by-elections.

The eighth seat—Toronto-Greenwood—was retained by the Progressive Conservatives.

Two of the Liberal losses were to Independent Liberals and the third to an Independent. All three said during the by-election campaign they would support the present government. However, they will not be recognized as supporters until they are invited to attend party caucuses.

Raymond Brunneau (Ind. L. Prescott, Ont.) elected in the general election, has not yet been invited to the caucuses, although he has said he supports the government.

The seats retained by the Liberals were Montreal-Laurier, Montreal-Mercier, Gatineau, Que. and New Westminster, B.C. The Independent Liberals carried Kamouraska, Que., and Restigouche-Madawaska, N.B. The Independent took Montreal-Jacques Cartier.

Eight of the 23 candidates lost their deposits of $200 required to enter federal elections.

All of the winning candidates are newcomers to the Commons except J. M. Macdonnell, who carried Toronto-Greenwood for the Progressive Conservatives. He was the party's financial critic in the last Commons, but lost in the general election to Bucko McDonald, former National Hockey League star and Liberal member for Parry Sound-Muskoka, Ont.

MOTT FOR ROYAL CITY

By a 2,000-vote majority, William M. Mott defeated four opponents to retain the New Westminster seat for the Liberal Party. The voters gave the 55-year-old former mayor 8,689 votes to fill the seat made vacant by Liberal Tom Reid's elevation to the Senate. He had held it during those 16 years.

Elmore Philpott, 53, a Vancouver Sun columnist, polled 6,475 of the 24,657 votes cast. He ran as an Independent.

Behind him were Ronald Irvine, 37-year-old C.C.F. standard bearer, with 5,803 votes; Leslie James Christmas, Progressive Conservative, 3,050; and Maurice Rush, Labor-Progressive Party, 640. Both Christmas and Irvine lost to Senator Reid in the June 27 balloting.

Mr. Mott led from the outset. The Canadian Press reported his election 51 minutes after polls had closed at 6 p.m. P.D.T. Of 47,000 eligible voters, only 24,657 went to the 201 polls. In June, when the list had 1,602 less names, 33,297 persons voted.

Two of the four seats retained by the Liberals formerly were represented by cabinet ministers—Hon. Joseph Jean, Solicitor-General and member for Montreal-Mercier, and Hon. Ernest Bertrand, Postmaster-General and member for Montreal-Laurier. Both were given bench appointments after the general election.

In Montreal-Laurier, Liberal J. E. LeFrancis won easily. He polled 10,204 votes to 709 for Pierre Gellinas, Labor-Progressive, who lost his deposit.

The Montreal-Mercier seat was carried by Marcel Monette, Liberal, with a plurality of 6,822. With two polls still unreported, Mr. Monette had 8,884 votes, Wilfrid Latraverse, Independent Liberal, 2,062 and Leon Bertrand, Independent, 1,197.

J. Celestin Nadon, former member of the Quebec Legislature, carried Gatineau for the Liberals. The seat, formerly known as Wright, has been traditionally Liberal.

In Restigouche—Madawaska, Paul L. Dube, 57-year-old locomotive engineer and an Independent Liberal candidate, defeated J. Albert Pichette, Liberal, a 40-year-old lawyer. Mr. Dube, making his third federal election attempt, had run previously as a Conservative and later as a supporter of the Union des Electeurs, an offshoot of the Social Credit Party.

JACQUES-CARTIER

In Montreal—Jacques Cartier, Edgar Leduc, an Independent, won with a majority of more than 2,000 over Sarto Marchand, the Liberal candidate. Mr. Leduc lost the Liberal nomination convention to Mr. Marchand by three votes and then decided to run on an Independent ticket. He polled 9,009 votes to 6,740 for Mr. Marchand, with two polls still unreported.

The Kamouraska constituency, a consistently Liberal seat, elected Arthur Masse, an Independent Liberal, over Gerard Levesque, a Liberal.

C.N.R. Urges Body To Control All Transportation

OTTAWA (CP)—Control of all forms of transportation under a central regulatory body was urged Monday by the Canadian National Railways in its basic submission to the Royal Commission on Transportation.

The government-owned line also called for revision of its unwieldy financial structure to provide a clearer picture of its operating results, and for the transfer from railway to public accounts of losses from uneconomic operations carried on as a matter of broad national policy.

The financial reshuffle, the railway said, would not cost the government any money. It would clarify the system's position to provide "an understandable yardstick by which the public can measure its operating efficiency."

In advocating a national transportation policy with central control of all transport, the railway suggested this be brought about either through agreement with the provinces or through enlarging Parliament's jurisdiction by amendment of the British North America Act.

More Families Came To B.C. Than Left For Second Month

Figures released Monday by W. R. Bone, regional director of Family Allowance, showed British Columbia is still attracting many from prairie and eastern points.

A total of 387 families in receipt of the allowance came to this province during the October business period of the department, and 386 left for other parts of Canada. It was the second successive month the number of families coming to B.C. exceeded the number who left.

From Alberta came 201 families, while 167 crossed the Rockies to that province from B.C. Saskatchewan emigrants to British Columbia numbered 161 families and 66 families returned to the mid-prairie province.

Average allowance per child paid in B.C. during October—the department's month ends on the 20th—was $5.97, computed from an amount of $1,740,949 paid on behalf of 291,345 children.

The pack rat will steal any small object but always leaves something in its place, generally a stick or pine cone.

Claim Dismissed

The mechanics lien claim for $1,000 of Alex Poulson against Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gowen, was dismissed by Judge H. H. Shand.

ley in County Court Monday. The claim was for work done to a $28,000 apartment house for the Gowans on Cook Street.

I.O.D.E. Resolutions Deal With Sex Criminal, Pensions

At the semi-annual meeting of Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., held last week in Burnaby, B.C., resolutions were passed asking that "the criminal code be amended and that provision be made that all sex criminals be retained and suitable treatment given until competent medical authorities are satisfied that they are no longer dangerous to be at large in the community."

Another resolution dealt with War Veterans and Widows Allowance Act and read, in part, "that the Government of the Dominion of Canada be requested to bring about as soon as possible the enactment of such legislation as may be necessary to provide payment of allowances under the said act which shall at least be equal to the combined highest amount paid as a maximum total of pension and cost of living bonus to old age pensioners anywhere in Canada."

Mrs. E. H. Pellant, provincial post-war service convener, reported that for 10 years the I.O.D.E. had been sending food and clothing to Britain and that this work was continuing and increasing with parcels now going not only to the United Kingdom but to distressed countries in Europe.

It was also announced that an I.O.D.E. bursary of $100 had this year been granted 20-year-old Roger Ross, son of Percy Ross, Chief of the Songhee Indian tribe, who is now studying dentistry at the Pacific Dental School at Portland, Ore.

Realize $100—A sale of work and afternoon tea arranged by Court Maple Leaf, A.O.F., at the home of Mrs. H. F. Jarvis, drew a crowd of old members and friends and realized the sum of $100. Mrs. J. Fenerty was in charge of tea tickets; Mrs. L. Fletcher and Mrs. F. Cartwright, fancy-work and aprons; Mesdames M. Jackson, A. Jordan and H. Taylor, afternoon teas. Next sewing circle will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Manson, 1054 Pandora Avenue, on Thursday.

65% OF A WOMEN'S GROUP PREFERRED HEINZ SOUP IN COMPARATIVE TEST WITH WELL-KNOWN BRAND

A group of average housewives in a typical small Canadian city were served two bowls of heated tomato soup that were identified only by the letters A and B, and asked to write down the brand they preferred. Nearly 65 percent voted Heinz FIRST for flavour. Less than 35 percent voted for another well-known brand, with one lone lady registering no choice.

Try this taste test on your own family. Heat a tin of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup and a tin of any other brand. Serve half-helpings of each and get your family's verdict. When they have tasted the wonderful difference chances are it will be two to one for Heinz.

If you have been buying some other brand for any reason, try Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup just ONCE. It will be the beginning of a long friendship.

Doctor Gives Factors Needed In Well-Adjusted Maturity

It is not the dull, easy going person but the high-strung, sensitive, intelligent person who more easily "cracks up" if he or she has not become well adjusted to the adult world, Dr. George Davidson, eminent Vancouver brain specialist told 70 members of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club yesterday evening.

Adjustment comes with maturity, the speaker continued, and that adjustment must include the ability to face facts in terms of reality and accept things as they are: to evolve a set of long-term values; to have a grown-up conscience and the ability to be independent, but also with a reasonable dependence on others; to love someone other than one self; to have a moderate reaction to hate and anger; at the same time being able to "flare up"

Kathleen Hale Naval Man's Bride

Winnipeg, the home of the groom's parents, shares interest with this city in the quiet double-ring ceremony, Saturday evening, at Oak Bay United Church, when vows were exchanged by Kathleen Margaret, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hale, 1254 Montrose Avenue, and Neil McLeod Sutherland, R.C.N., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Sutherland.

Rev. W. W. McPherson read the service before immediate family members.

A crepe afternoon frock in dusty rose—fashioned with softly draped bodice and apron skirt was worn by the bride, given in marriage by her father. Her halo-hat was of self material pleated and embroidered with seed pearls, and her shoulder veil was in the same soft tone. A pearl necklace was her only jewelry and she wore gardenias in corsage.

Miss Patricia Beatrice Hale, her sister's sole attendant, was in pearl grey crepe fashioned with yoke of lace. She wore a small French blue hat with matching shoulder veil, and grey flowers. Her corsage bouquet was of pink roses.

L. J. Thomson, R.C.N., shipmate of the groom aboard H.M.C.S. Ontario, was best man. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where Mr. and Mrs. Hale assisted in receiving guests.

The table, decorated with pale pink and white chrysanthemums and lighted pink candles in silver scones, was centred with a two-tier cake. J. N. Givens proposed the toast.

For the honeymoon trip to the mainland, the bride donned an Anderson plaid suit, gabardine topcoat and hat and accessories in blue. She wore a gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland will make their home on Newton Avenue.

U.S. Woman Ambassador, Apple Pie Diplomat

Mrs. Eugenie Anderson Can't Speak Danish Yet, But Knows Her Pastry; She's A Pianist And Politician, Too

RED WING, Minn. (NEA)—Mrs. Eugenie Anderson hasn't learned how to speak Danish yet, but she can bake a mean apple pie.

Since the Danes love good pastry as well as anybody, this should give Mrs. Anderson a good start in her job as Ambassador to Denmark.

When she heard the news of her nomination over the old-fashioned wall telephone in the Anderson farmhouse at Red Wing, her hands were powdered with flour. Mrs. Anderson had been baking.

But the first woman ever to be picked by the President as an ambassador (previous feminine diplomatic roles have been as ministers) is more than a housewife. She is a pianist—and a politician too.

The 40-year-old Mrs. Anderson lives with her artist husband, John, and their two children, Johanna, 15, and Hans, 11, on a farm estate just north of St. Paul.

Her husband's father, the late Dr. Alexander P. Anderson, invented the process for puffed grain cereals (Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice) and made a fortune. Needless to say, the John Andersons are well-off.

The news of her nomination wasn't unexpected. It had been in the making for several months, but nevertheless it caused a mild sensation in the household.

"I'm very happy," the attractive, dark-haired ambassador-designate said. "But I also think there is a great responsibility to be met."

"I have much studying to do for the job," she continued. "I do not speak the Danish language, and, of course, I hope to be able to do so as soon as possible."

Well-groomed, cultured and poised, Mrs. Anderson speaks softly but her voice can rise to shimmering oratorical eloquence. She has a streak of determination, but a calm demeanor hides it and softens opposition rather than antagonizing it.

She became interested in politics a few years back, when isolationism was the big issue. She was dissatisfied with her Congressman, but instead of writing him sharp letters she plunged into active party politics.

That was in 1944. She started at the bottom as a doorbell ringing precinct worker for the Democratic Farm Labor Party and became county chairwoman, district chairwoman and state vice-chairwoman.

Last year she was sent as a delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, and also was given the still higher distinction of Democratic National Committee woman.

She became one of the state's most effective speakers for the party, and campaigned for President Truman and Hubert Humphrey, Minneapolis mayor, who was elected to the U.S. Senate.

Eugenie Anderson was born in Adair, Iowa, of Scotch-English-Irish parentage. Her father was a Methodist minister. Her mother first sparked her interest in music with piano lessons when she was five. She went one year to Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., had a year on a scholarship at Juillard School of Music in New York, and then went to Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. Her major was music and her minor, philosophy.

There a classmate's brother, vacationing from studies at Yale, was introduced to her. They were married in 1930. The couple first lived in New York, he to continue art studies and she her music. They have lived at the Anderson family estate since 1932.

Their home is a grey frame 12-room dwelling. It is set back from the highway, about a city block deeper into the farm than the original house where another member of the Anderson family now lives.

John Anderson manages the farm and has a workshop studio near the house.

Mrs. Anderson has household help when she is particularly busy, but when she has time she and her daughter Johanna enjoy having the roomy house to themselves.

Mrs. Anderson isn't the sort of person who has regular "sessions" at the beauty parlor. Most of the time she "does" her hair herself.

She enjoys cooking and loves to bake. She admits she's especially fond of Danish rolls and pastry.

She speaks "a little German" and once studied French, but confesses she knows nothing of the Scandinavian languages. She will study Danish diligently on her arrival in that country.

She is happy to hear that Danish public schools have a good reputation. That's where Johanna and Hans will be going.

Florida Teacher Without Invitation Hears Nehru Speak

OTTAWA (CP)—While Prime Minister Nehru of India was putting Parliament Hill into a flurry today with an official address to both Houses of Parliament, an amiable but determined visitor was cutting a swath of her own.

She was Mrs. Lottie M. Clark, a Jacksonville, Fla., school teacher. She teaches world history, among other things, and is specially interested in Pandit Nehru and Asia. She was determined to hear him today. She did.

When authorities told her it would be "impossible" to get her a seat in the public galleries, it was like waving a red flag in front of a bull.

Mrs. Clark—a 68-year-old native of Roxborough, Ont.—was on hand at the main entrance to the Parliament Buildings at 9 a.m. Parliament didn't open until 3 p.m. In the intervening period she won over the Commons' protective staff.

Genial Eddie Sabourin, a member of this staff, got a chair and Mrs. Clark settled down in the main rotunda under the portrait of former Prime Minister Mackenzie King. She lacked one of the red tickets needed even by ambassadors to obtain a seat. Eddie managed to find one.

"She's going to send me a case of oranges," Eddie confided.

Mrs. Clark, pleased as punch about getting to hear the Indian Prime Minister, admits she usually gets what she wants.

Government Studies Steps To Build Shipping Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is considering ways of helping Canada's sagging shipping industry, but the policy is not expected to take shape for at least several months.

Transport Minister Chevrier told the Commons Monday night that a number of plans are being considered on how to bolster the vital shipping industry.

"I wish I could say what those plans are, but I do not think it is in the public interest to do so," he said.

He was replying to questions asked by Gordon Isnor (L.Hall-fax) during lengthy discussion of the $77,539,429 in Department of Transport estimates.

MARITIMES LOSING

Mr. Isnor expressed concern about the east-coast shipping situation. Fewer and fewer ships were using Atlantic coast ports and the effects were being felt all through the maritime economy.

Mr. Chevrier said he fully recognized the seriousness of the shipping situation. But it wasn't a problem faced only by Canada.

The same was true of every country in the world.

Increased cost of operation was one of the difficulties. Another was lack of freight and deterioration in freight rates. A third was devaluation.

Operating cost of a Canadian flag ship was second only to the United States. The cost of constructing a ship in Canada was considerably higher than the United Kingdom.

There were 118 ships in the Canadian fleet and at present 23 were laid up through lack of cargoes. The United States had laid up 2,050 war-built ships.

The effects of devaluation on Canadian shipping provided the big question mark which held up definition of a government policy. The results could not be seen yet and any policy announced at this time would be of little real use.

TO HEAR SUBMISSIONS

Mr. Chevrier told the Commons the royal commission on Canada's freight rate structure will hold hearings in Ottawa early next month at which general submissions will be received from the provinces and the railways.

These will be the final hearings held by the commission. It then would begin a study of the evidence on freight rates and would probably have its report ready some time next year.

Mr. Chevrier was replying during discussion of transport department estimates to a question asked last week by Howard Green (P.C.-Vancouver-Quadra).

The minister said the Board of Transport Commissioners—dealing with specific requests by the railways for freight rate increases—may resume public hearings after the report of the royal commission is presented.

Farmer Kills Self After Wounding Nine In Michigan Village

WATERFORD, Mich. (AP)—A farmer went berserk here Monday night and shot and wounded nine persons in two taverns before killing himself.

Undersheriff Donald O. Menzies identified the man as Joe Runyon, 45, who lived alone on a nearby farm.

The farmer came to the village and blazed away without warning with a 12-gauge shotgun.

Nine persons were in a hospital in Pontiac today.

Waterford is a village (population 450) six miles northwest of Pontiac.

The sheriff's office and Pontiac police dispatched a large force of officers in cruisers to the village.

Witnesses gave this account of the shooting:

The farmer appeared at Stan's Tavern, in the heart of Waterford. He shot down five customers as he blasted through windows.

While screams of the wounded roused the village, the man raced across the street to the Waterford Hotel.

Mounting to the wide veranda, he ran to the windows of the hotel's bar. Shoving the barrel of his gun through the glass, he fired two shots in succession.

The man then turned the gun on himself and fire into his abdomen.

A fleet of six ambulances rushed the wounded to hospitals.

Alberta's Oldest Man Dies At Age Of 108

WETASKIWIN, Alta. (CP)—Jim Winter, Alberta's grand old man, died Monday at the age of 108 years. He was known as Alberta's oldest resident and perhaps the oldest in Canada.

Mr. Winter was born in Atlanta, Georgia, and served in the Confederate army in the Civil War. He came to this district 30 years ago.

Mr. Winter, who claimed his father died at 110, did not retire until he was 99. He came to Alberta in 1902 as a bridge builder with the Canadian Pacific Railway and a year later, at 62, took up a homestead in the Pigeon Lake area of Alberta.

The funeral will be Wednesday under Masonic auspices. He has no known relatives.

An English Cottage

This is a charming example of an average size home, built in the English cottage style. Note the pleasant easy-to-keep-house floor plan. This house is heated with oil, and is air-conditioned. There is no basement. Total floor area, 1,280 square feet (less garage). This home was built in Victoria by W. H. Russell and Sons, to a plan by C. N. Gore.

Building Your Home

Building a home is one of the most important business transactions undertaken by the average family. Properly approached from a financial standpoint, home-ownership can bring lasting satisfaction. Improperly entered into financially, home-ownership can become an intolerable burden, robbing a family of many other comforts of family life. A house that a family cannot afford can never be a home.

So important is the problem of home acquisition that no family should even contemplate home-ownership without first making a careful appraisal of all the factors involved. There is much of an emotional aspect about the process of home-ownership. The prospect of having a house of their own may, and often does, blind a family to many of the principles of sound business which should be considered. Home-ownership means staying in a particular locality for a certain length of time, and unless a family can see at least several years into the future, they would be well advised not to undertake home-ownership.

If, in your eagerness to build a house, you contract to pay more than you are able, you cannot just stop payments and let the property go. You are liable for the entire amount of the mortgage. If you cannot sell the house for enough to pay it off, you still owe the difference between the sale price and the amount of your then mortgage indebtedness.

It is false to assume that a house can be sold easily or that all of the money invested can be realized at any time should the family decide to move. A home is an investment as well as a purchase of shelter, but a house, like any other physical asset, is subject to depreciation and obsolescence, and at the end of five, ten or fifteen years it has depreciated in value and is not worth the amount originally invested. There are exceptions, of course, to this rule. People fortunate enough to build at the bottom of a depression or at the beginning of a rising market may find that the value of their home has increased during the first few years, but this is the exception and should not be counted upon from the standpoint of a sound investment in home-ownership.

There are three very important factors which influence and to a large measure determine, future values. Probably most important is the proper choice of a site. Unless the site chosen by you is suitable for the type of house that you propose to build and is properly protected by strictly enforced adequate zoning ordinances, the control of the investment that you make in your house passes to your neighbors, and they can, by ill-advised choice of design, poor construction, etc., wipe out your investment practically overnight. Therefore it is most important that the location of your house be studied carefully, with a view to determining the type and future growth of the neighborhood and a careful investigation be made into existing zoning ordinances and any other factors which might influence the development of the neighborhood.

The second important consideration is the design of your house—not only the logical and adequate plan but the degree to which the external appearance of your house fits in with other houses in the neighborhood.

Q.—Must I own the lot before applying for an N.H.A. loan?

A.—No. While you must own the lot before construction begins, it is wise to have your lending company approve the lot before completing purchase. If you believe it is a particularly good lot and may be sold to someone else, endeavor to obtain an option on it until your loan is approved.

USING VARNISH

Varnish does not require mixing! Work varnish into the bristles by pressing it gently against the inside of the can. A few experiments will give you the right brush-load.

Welcome color—don't dodge it. Bright, cheerful colors are the mode today. In magazines—model rooms of furniture stores and model homes you will find any number of bright, inviting color schemes. Any one of them can readily be duplicated.

At all costs avoid "applied decoration." Avoid any freakish design that will date your house. Remember that four walls and a roof have been housing accommodation for a great many years in the past and will continue to be housing accommodation for many years in the future. It is only when you add luxuries, equipment, and certain embellishments that you date your house, and from that moment obsolescence becomes effective.

Thirdly, be careful in your selection of building materials. Only by choosing the right materials can you avoid excessive maintenance. Do not attempt to cover up sound structural materials that will resist wear and weather. If necessary decorate construction but never construct decoration.

If your house is properly located on a well-protected site and is of moderate, pleasing design and built of the proper materials, you are making an investment that will be good for many years, and you will have done everything humanly possible to avoid the loss which often occurs because of negligence of these three important factors.

Q.—Why are municipal and school taxes paid as part of the monthly payment under the N.H.A. system of mortgage lending?

A.—Municipal and school taxes are paid in advance in monthly instalments under N.H.A. because it relieves the borrower of the responsibility of meeting a large tax payment each year. Borrowers to whom the N.H.A. system of lending appeals are generally familiar with the pattern of monthly repayments which makes it easier for them to budget for home-ownership. Estimated too low only a small additional payment will be required from the borrower when taxes are due. If they have been estimated too high the borrower's tax portion of his mortgage account is credited and future payments are adjusted. If the estimate has been correct, the borrower simply forwards his tax bill to his lending company and they are paid out of the tax money in his mortgage account.

There are more than 150 known uses and needs for hot water in the home; it is used more times during the day than any other commodity. The more convenient and easier it is to have hot water, the more it will be used, and the higher will be the standards of health and cleanliness in the home.

Universities Need New Financing

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, told 200 Queen's graduates Monday night he foresees difficult years ahead in university finance across Canada.

The well-known geologist and educator flew from Kingston, Ont., to address a banquet meeting of the Queen's University Alumni Association here.

"Some new method of financing universities must be found or we will have as hard a time to maintain our standards as we did in the thirties," he said.

New Homes Hardly Keep Pace With Newcomers To Victoria

So far this year over 500 new families have arrived to settle in and around Greater Victoria. There are no figures available to show how many have left this city but there is always movement among naval personnel and employees of some of the bigger nation-wide firms.

There have been close to 500 marriages in Victoria to date this year, and the majority of brides remain in their home towns to live. To the end of September there had been issued 271 permits for residential houses and 20 for duplexes, plus four apartment buildings. Of these, 100 were issued to Central Mortgage and Housing. If marriages and newcomers continue at the current rate it would appear that local housing problems may be acute for some time to come.

Overlook Passage Of Transit By-law

Although two years have elapsed since the B.C. Electric was given the franchise to operate its buses in the municipality of Esquimalt, the by-law providing that no other company or individual may operate buses in competition with the specified company has yet to be passed.

came from Douglas A. M. Patterson, company solicitor.

BACK from the W.I.L. meeting at Tacoma, over the weekend, business manager Reg Patterson of the Victoria Athletics reports progress on a possible player deal with the Salem Senators. "The Portland farm club is really hot about getting pitcher Joe Blankenship and I honestly think we will get together on a trade," Reg said. "I have asked Salem to let me have a complete list of their players open to trade and will make up my mind after studying the roster."

AT the present time the Athletics are figuring two players for one in any trade. Three Salem players who figure most prominently in the deal are first baseman Marty Krug, outfielder Mel Wasley and right-handed pitcher Jim Olson. Patterson disclosed that the league directors figure the moving of the Wenatchee franchise to the Tri-Cities area of Washington will prove beneficial to all teams. The new club is certain to draw well with the league moving into virgin territory.

NO definite action has been taken yet on the disposal of the Bremerton franchise. Both Wenatchee and Eugene, Ore., are bidding for the holding, but in Patterson's opinion the former holds the inside track. "I understand major leaguer Joe Gordon is associated with the Eugene interests," Patterson said. The Wenatchee group seeking to keep the apple town in the league is headed by Joe Brownlow, business manager of that town's club when it was owned by the Sacramento Solons of the Coast League.

VICTORIA hockey fans will see their first inter-division Coast League competition tonight at the Memorial Arena when the Cougars hook up with Los Angeles Monarchs. The California invaders received rough treatment in their first two appearances, dropping games at Portland and Seattle. Let's hope the Cougars can make it three straight. A victory over Los Angeles tonight and another win against Portland here Friday would put the Victoria club in a neat position to start its tough four-game road trip.

To Distant Fields Hunters Go

Forty pheasants was the score of four hunters, including two Victorians, on a five-day hunting trip in the Okanagan's Vernon area. Left to right are: H. J. Taylor, Vancouver; Cecil Rawlings and Cec Rhodes of Victoria and Ernie Butler of Kamloops. "We didn't have any trouble at all in getting our two-day limit," said Rhodes, who also reported that the same quartette went up to the 100-Mile House of the Cariboo after the pheasant hunt and bagged more than 50 mallards. "They were big birds, much larger than you get in the Victoria area," said Rawlings.

Hunting in the East Kootenay area near Fernie, Al Beasley, 260 Island Highway, bagged a 500-pound elk last week. Other members of the party were Stan Bell, Al Trace and Kim Hines, all of this city. Beasley and party also got two deer on the week's trip. They returned to the city Monday.

Senators Down Army; Elks In Great Rally

Trailing through most of the first half then throwing off a late challenge with a four-basket offensive in the dying minutes of the game, Senators of the Men's Senior B basketball league last night defeated R.C.E.M.E., 34 to 26, in the feature of a three-game card at the High School gym.

It was Senators second straight victory of the young season and gives them the league lead.

In other games on the card, Elks (formerly Eaton's) also came from behind to defeat Normal School, 33 to 26, in an intermediate A men's game and Barons trounced Y.M.C.A. 34 to 15 in an intermediate B boys' contest.

The senior game saw the army lead through most of the initial stanza with Senators taking a 15 to 14 edge just before half time.

RALLY FAILS

Winners jumped into a seven-point lead at 27 to 20 in the second half but R.C.E.M.E. closed the gap to one point at 27 to 26 before Senators rammed in four baskets to sew up the verdict.

Ray Mitchell and Howie Slang shared point-getting honors for Senators with nine. Bryant topped the losers with eight.

Elks turned in a complete reversal of form in the second half of their game with Normal School to snatch the decision.

BIG DEFICIT

Down 7 to 2 at the 10-minute mark and trailing by 19 to 7 at the half, the antlered cagers rapped in 14 points to Normal School's lone basket in the third period to knot the count at 21 to 21. Elks continued their offensive in the final quarter to outscore the teachers, 12 to 5, and win going away.

Lewis with 11 points and Griffin with 10 were high-point men for Elks. Ken Wright's nine points in the first quarter stood up for Normal School's scoring honors for the evening.

Every member of Barons hit the score sheet as they had little difficulty in subduing Y.M.C.A. Hodges was high man with eight points.

Teams and scorers follow: Senators—Mitchell 9, Long 3, Lomas 4, Sprinkling 3, Slane 3, Thompson 4, Masters 2, O'Neill 1. R.C.E.M.E.—G. Bryant 8, Brown 6, Don Double 6, Doug Double 5, Fre. Bas. Los Angeles Monarchs Usher In Inter-Division Ice Play

Victorians will get their first opportunity to compare the teams in the northern and southern divisions of the Pacific Coast Hockey League tonight when the Los Angeles Monarchs under coach Dutch Hiller take the ice against the Victoria Cougars at the Memorial Arena at 8.30.

The Monarchs have a rugged outfit, and in play to date, the team as a whole has spent more minutes in the penalty box than any of the other clubs in the 11-club circuit. They have amassed 105 minutes in penalties.

Local puck fans will remember man, continues to set the pace in the name of Hec Highton, former Vancouver lad, who will guard the Californians' citadel. He will be backed up on the blue line by Matt Mesich, who spent the most time in the "sin-bin" in the southern division last year, and Alf Papike on one combination, with Don Webster and Gene Martin forming the second duo.

Coach Hiller has 10 forwards making three complete lines and one reserve. Johnny Ubralc, leading scorer on the club with eight points, will centre one attacking unit, while the other centres include Dusty Blair and Bernie McCarthy.

Wingmen include Kenny Watson, Scotty McCracken, John Morrow, Ike Hildebrand, Eddie Mulligan, Bob Leger and John Meldrum.

SCORING RACE
Rudy Filion, star Seattle centre.

Top Berths Crowded In Ice Scoring Race

MONTREAL (CP)—Boston's Paul Ronty and Detroit's Ted Lindsay have taken over command of the National Hockey League scoring race by a one-point margin.

Official league statistics released today showed that left winger Lindsay and right winger Ronty are evenly matched with three goals and three assists for a six-point total—one more than Toronto's Sid Smith and Boston's Johnny Peirson. Last week Smith was the top performer. He has two goals and three assists while Peirson has assisted four times and scored once.

The third-place spot is split seven ways among seven players, each with four points. They are: Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach, Montreal Canadiens; Ted Kennedy, Howie Meeker and Fleming Mackell, Toronto Maple Leafs; Metro Prystai, Chicago Black Hawks; and Ken Smith, Boston Bruins.

RICHARD LEADER
In the goal-scoring department, Richard continues to stay in front with four—one more than he had last week. Peirson leads the assist division with four.

Big Bill Durnan, who allowed only three goals in two games last week to bring his goals against average to .80 per game, has proved the biggest stumbling block to opposing forwards.

The Canadian goalie also heads the shutout division with two. Rookie Jack Gelineau of Boston is Durnan's closest competitor with a 1.80 goals-against average and one goose-egg.

Kennedy leads the penalty parade with 14 minutes spent in the box.

Soccer League May Decide Leader In Week-End Games

The close District Soccer League race in which five teams are engaged in a spirited battle for the lead goes into another crucial week-end schedule on Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday's split card finds Duncan, one of the three teams tied for the lead, meeting Victoria West at Athletic Park at 2.30 and Heaney's clashing with the cellar-place, but improving, Alcos at lower Beacon Hill Park at the same time.

Jerry Cotnoir of the second-place Royals is the top goalie in the northern circuit. In seven games, Cotnoir has had only 14 goals scored against him for an average of two per game. Ron Pickell of the loop-leading Ironmen is runner-up with a mark of 3.44 in nine games. Jerry Fodey's goals-against average a game is 4.86.

Cagers Must Speed Up Game—Or Else

By BILL WALKER

Apparently basketball fans will no longer be troubled by late nights at the High School gymnasium. The league is under contract to have the building cleared by 10.30 each playing evening. And this is giving secretary Tommy Carson added grey hairs.

Carson was a worried man Saturday evening when the senior A game didn't start until 9.20. He couldn't see how the game could end by 10.15 (giving players 5 minutes to shower and dress). However, co-operation by the two team coaches, Harold Turner of Arrows and Art Chapman of the "Y," in agreeing to a five-minute rest period between halves enabled the officials to turn the trick and the game ended in one hour, only five minutes late.

This fact is behind the recent edict threatening teams with defaults of scheduled games if they do not take the floor at the specified starting time. What the penalty will be, if conditions of the contract are not adhered to, is not known. However, it's a certainty that local cage officials will do everything in their power to abide by the existing terms. The High School floor is the only one in the city available to the league.

What about overtime or necessary delays? That's what's worrying Carson.

ALPINE COMING

At any rate the league is away to a good start, the surprise being the performance of Arrow Furniture who have twice beaten the defending Y.M.C.A. team. This gives the Arrows the inside track for the first exhibition game of the season against Alpine Dairy here on Nov. 5. Policy of the league this year will be to give the team most deserving of the chance the right to play in exhibition games against visiting clubs.

UNDEFEATED RECORD

Victoria College Vikings are far and away the class of the senior English Rugby League this season. With four straight victories, the Collegians appear headed for an undefeated season. The three-quarter line is one of the speediest to be seen here for some time. Wanderers look to be the club most likely to give Vikings their stiffest opposition.

J.B.A.A. and Canadian Services College suffer from too much inexperience to be regarded as threats at the moment.

Two-Day Kennel Club Show At Armories Draws 165 Entries

Entry list for the Victoria City Kennel Club championship show at the Armories Friday and Saturday night has reached 165, it was announced today.

These aristocrats of the canine race will vie for top honors in the show being held under the auspices of the Junior Victorian Order of Nurses.

In addition to the usual judging for championship points, the local club will hold obedience trials for novice dogs in the A and B classes each evening at 7.

Jasper Daniels, well-known dog trainer, will judge these groups.

Robert Waters of Vancouver, Mrs. Zara Smith of Seattle and Robert Cross and Fred Dodsworth of Victoria will judge the various classes in the championship events.

Shows each day will commence at 10 in the morning continuing through until 10.30 in the evening.

Bays Gain Lead In Junior Rugby Loop

Handing Mount View its second straight setback, Oak Bay High's junior rugby squad climbed to the head of the five-team inter-high loop yesterday, one point in front of the idle Vic High Greens and Esquimalt, who tied Vic High Reds, 3 to 3, in a second game. Bays captured their game by an 8 to 6 margin.

Oak Bay High spotted Saanichites three points as the latter made good a penalty kick early in the contest, but Gerry Rovers drove across the line soon after to knot the score. Dennis Hurley put winners out in front on a try following a three-quarter run, and Hurley converted for what proved to be the winning points. Mount View's final score came as a result of another penalty kick.

In the other game, Don Donahue raced across the line at the 10-minute mark in the opening session to move Reds out in front, 3 to 0. Teams fought on an even keel for the remainder of the half, and Don Gill tied the score for dockyarders shortly before the breather.

Play shifted from end to end and in the second half but neither squad could break the deadlock.

Trenton, N.J., Ike Williams, 141½, Trenton, N.J., outpointed Al Mobley, 145, Elizabeth, N.J. (10).

Will Name City Administrator Soon; $10,000 Salary Planned

The city is to have an administrator who will be paid approximately $10,000 a year and who probably will be chosen before the end of the year.

City Council decided Monday in a camera meeting to proceed immediately with the appointment as recommended by the business engineering firm of Stevenson and Kellogg named earlier in the year to study the administration and recommend changes for greater efficiency.

Formal action on decision of the council was scheduled to be taken at a regular afternoon meeting of council today.

It was decided the new official would be known as "administrator" and not as director or city manager.

Some members of council feel the position as recommended by the business engineers differs from that of city manager known in other parts of Canada and in the U.S.

They say the duties of the new administrator and of city managers are similar, perhaps, but there are decided differences in appointment.

The administrator's probable salary will be half again as much as highest salaries now being paid city employees.

DUTIES OUTLINED
His duties will be the same as those outlined in the report of the business engineers:

1. To administer (plan, co-ordinate, direct, supervise and control) the day-to-day business affairs of the city in accordance with policies and plans approved and established by City Council;
2. To co-ordinate and direct the preparation of plans and programs to be submitted to council for the construction, rehabilitation and maintenance of city property and facilities;
3. To co-ordinate and direct the preparation of plans and programs to be submitted to council for development, expansion and improvement of city services;
4. To co-ordinate, direct and broadly supervise the implementation of such programs upon approval by the council;
5. To develop, establish and maintain, subject to council approval and implementation by law when necessary; comprehensive policies to direct the activities of all departments; adequate procedures to govern the conduct and working procedure of the employees; and controls and reports by which performance and costs may be judged and approved;
6. To compile, consider and present to the council recommendations arising from departmental operations which require council approval, and to propose legislation or resolutions arising from such recommendations;
7. To direct the preparation and compilation of, and to present to council, the annual estimates of receipts and expenditures.

FINANCIAL CONTROL

8. To exercise general financial control over all departments of city government in terms of approved appropriations;
9. To carry out or direct collective bargaining with all city employees other than members of police department, to recommend to council agreements concerning wages, salaries and working conditions; and, upon approval, to administer such agreements, and in general to be responsible for wage and salary administration subject to normal grievance procedures;
10. To select department heads, subject to council approval, and to co-ordinate, motivate and supervise these key officials, and, through them, all employees;
11. To direct and supervise the normal aspects of personnel administration, subject to the right of employees to appeal to the council in unusual cases;
12. To account to the council for his stewardship by presenting reports and information regarding progress and accomplishments in programs and projects, the status of receipts and expenditures, and his exercise of financial and administrative control.

C.P.R. To Maintain Fairbridge To Aid British Families

Although the Fairbridge Society of London has had to discontinue sending British children to the Prince of Wales Fairbridge Farm School near Duncan because of devaluation of the British pound sterling, an arrangement has been made to maintain the property so that the school can be used again for the movement of children when economic conditions permit.

This arrangement has been made by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which owns the property. In a joint announcement from Montreal and London Monday, H. C. P. Cresswell, chief commissioner of the C.P.R.'s department of colonization, and Gordon Green of the Fairbridge Society's executive committee, said the C.P.R. has agreed to maintain the property for the purpose of assisting British farm families to migrate to Canada.

Under the arrangement, the 1,000-acre farm site will be leased to a tenant and operated under the supervision of the Canada Colonization Association, a subsidiary of the C.P.R.'s immigration and colonization department. The school site will be leased to the C.P.R. for occupancy by farm families from Britain.

Direction and control of the school establishment and children already there will remain under A. H. Plows, resident principal.

For occupancy of the available residences, said Mr. Cresswell, "My department will select, overseas, suitable British families who have the minimum transferable capital of $1,000 over a period of four years as presently allowed by the Bank of England, and who will undertake to remain in these residences for a period up to three years."

Slides were shown of places and scenes in England, Scotland and Wales familiar to a large number of those present.

Dr. Mawdsley, dean of women and a member of the English department at the University of British Columbia, gave one of the best talks of the current University Extension Association program.

She told of touring Britain by car with two other women, and of visiting Paris, the Riviera, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Denmark and Holland.

PASSPORT DIFFICULTIES
Since Canada has no reciprocal passport arrangements, as do Britain and the United States, much time was lost in obtaining visas for travel on the Continent, the speaker said.

She told of having lots of road space on British roads, because of petrol rationing, but noted the many bicycles on roads in Europe. These, Dr. Mawdsley added, proved a bit of a hazard for automobile drivers.

The automobile in which the women traveled was a British model produced at the present time with a "for export only" label.

Thus it was, the speaker said, Britons viewed with interest one of their own cars which some had been waiting years to buy.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY
"We were often taken for Americans and sometimes apologized for even being in the country where food is short," Dr. Mawdsley commented. She picked Sweden and Belgium as the best-off countries she saw in Europe.

Next University Extension speaker will be Prof. Geoffrey Andrew, executive assistant to the president of U.B.C., who will talk on "Modern Thought in Modern Art."

Accident Procedure Outlined For Club

Correct procedure for persons finding themselves involved in a motor accident was outlined for fellow members of the Thunderbird Toastmasters' Club by Charles E. Stevens, insurance adjuster, Monday night.

Two of the most important things to remember, Mr. Stevens said, are to leave all vehicles where they stop until police arrive and take measurements, and to leave injured persons where they are, instead of trying to move them.

"In many cases," he said, "moving injured persons merely aggravates their injuries."

Other speakers on the club's program were Arnold McDermid, Aubrey Karagialis, Gordon Willicroft, Cyril Henman, Stanley Wade and Donald Anderson.

A panel discussion group, led by Robert Johnson, included William Gelling, Dal Horne, David Packard, Bill Williams, Neil Main, Al Ross and Thomas Gibbs.

Victoria prayer group, under nomination, will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 in Christ Church Memorial Hall.

Granted Citizenship Papers To Bring Chinese Family Here

Judge H. H. Shandley today came to the aid of Low Chung Pak, gardener for Senator Harry Barnard, who is seeking to get his family out of China before the country is overrun by Communist forces.

The judge granted Mr. Low his Canadian citizenship papers ahead of time so that he could bring his wife and two children to Victoria before the village where they are staying is captured by the Communists. Citizenship papers are usually awarded on the first Monday of every month.

Mr. Low's family is living in a village situated near the crown colony of Hongkong.

Carew Martin, K.C., who acted as counsel for Mr. Low, said the applicant had not a minute to lose if he wanted to get his family out of China.

"It is just touch and go," he said.

Mr. Low left the courtroom with intention of bringing his family immediately to Victoria.

Sale Of Cards For Retail Discounts Banned At U.B.C.

The students' council of the University of British Columbia has refused the National Campus Club permission to sell memberships at the Point Grey institution.

The National Campus Club, started at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, about 10 months ago, sells membership cards for $3 each. Cards are good for discounts ranging from 10 to 25 per cent at certain stores in the city concerned which join the scheme to attract student business.

The governing group of the university has gone on record as disapproving the N.C.C.'s scheme.

OPPOSE PLAN
The Vancouver Better Business Bureau and the Retail Merchants' of Canada Inc. have opposed the plan on the basis that it would give certain special privileged groups an unfair and unwarranted advantage over the general public required to buy at accepted standard prices. The groups say it would undermine the retail business system.

In a front-page editorial, the student publication, Ubyssy, suggests the N.C.C. is a "get-rich-quick" organization and should be viewed by students "with the utmost suspicion."

It continues: "To lose the good will of certain stores in Vancouver who have contributed generously to such projects as the War Memorial Gymnasium Fund is not a happy prospect to consider."

A meeting of the Vancouver Island Track Roadsters Association will be held at 8 tonight in the British Public Schools Club.

Life has Changed for the Family Man

Most men live longer than their grandfathers. Women have a better life expectancy, too. So have children — not only that, but children nowadays spend more of their years getting an education.

These facts have brought significant changes in the family man's financial obligations. They mean that he must be prepared to support everyone in his family longer — including himself!

Fortunately, there is an effective way of meeting financial obligations of this nature — a well-planned insurance programme. Life insurance is a sure means by which a man can provide protection for his family in the event of his death or an income for himself should he live to retirement age.

The family man is wise to review his insurance requirements in view of changing conditions. If you would like expert advice, a representative of the Manufacturers Life will be glad to give it to you.

Freighter's Cook Who Neglected Duty Jailed Four Weeks

George R. Saunders, chief cook aboard Ss. Tricape, Montreal freighter which called at this port three weeks ago, today was found guilty of having wilfully neglected his duties on Oct. 6 and 7 and was sentenced by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court to serve four weeks in Oakalla.

The charge against the cook was laid under the Canada Shipping Act by Capt. Stuart Gordon, master of the ship. Saunders pleaded not guilty at the opening of his trial and testified he had been drunk for four days at the time of the offence and had not known what he was doing.

Magistrate Hall today told the accused he considered it "an impertinence to ask that I believe you were so drunk that you did not know what you were doing for four days."

"You must have come to some time during that period," the magistrate declared. "What you claim is almost an insult to one's intelligence."

Acting city prosecutor Patrick Sinnott, prior to the magistrate's ruling, argued against a submission by defence counsel Arthur Dawe that the charge against his client be dismissed.

Mr. Sinnott termed Mr. Dawe's arguments "sea lawyer points which have no real merit."

Shawnigan Girl Hurt
DUNCAN—A Shawnigan Lake girl is recovering in King's Daughters Hospital here from injuries received in a car accident Monday outside of the Cobble Hill post office.

Noella Goode, pupil at Cobble Hill high school, suffered a fractured leg, cuts, bruises and shock when struck by a car reportedly driven by Mrs. W. Boyles of Cobble Hill.

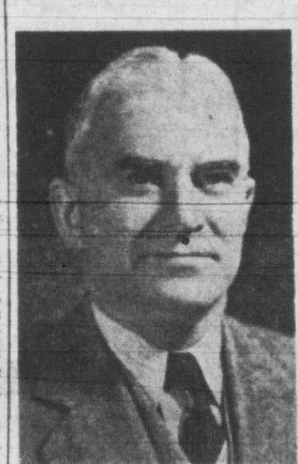

Motorcyclist Hurt
Bruises were sustained by motorcyclist John C. Dreaper, 21, of 1038 McGregor Avenue, when his machine was in collision with a car at Pandora and Belmont Avenue Monday evening, city police reported.

Dreaper was treated at Jubilee Hospital. Car was driven by Frank Crocker, 1803 Belmont Avenue, police said.

Johnson To Address Laurier Club Here

PREMIER BYRON JOHNSON
Officials of the Laurier Club of Victoria reported today that Premier Byron Johnson would address a supper meeting of the club to be held at 6:15 Thursday night in Terry's dining room.

It will be the first address by Premier Johnson to the club since he assumed the premiership and the leadership of the Liberal Party in British Columbia. It will also be Mr. Johnson's first major speech in Victoria since the June 11 provincial general election.

The topic of Mr. Johnson's address has not yet been announced.

B.C. Teachers Seek Better Rural Homes

A study of teaching and living conditions in rural areas will be a major concern of the B.C. Teachers' Federation in the coming year.

This was decided at the fall executive meeting of the federation in Vancouver.

"Salaries alone will not attract teachers to rural areas—there must be adequate provision for comfortable and convenient living. No teacher expects to have a palace in the wilderness, but he needs more than a drafty shack or a shiplap lean-to," said J. Philipson of Williams Lake.

He was appointed to make an investigation into living conditions in rural areas.

Driver Fined $40

James Melville Danbrook, Cordova Bay Road, was fined $40 when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving.

The charge was laid following an accident Oct. 20 at Cook and Yates Streets. According to police, Danbrook drove through a stop sign at the intersection, hit another car and turned it on its side.

Magistrate Hall allowed a request by Danbrook that he be given permission to drive his car to and from work on Sundays during the term his driver's licence would normally be under suspension. He explained he lived eight miles from the city centre and that Sunday bus service to his home area did not meet his needs.

He will be prohibited from driving weekdays for a period of three months.

Chest Campaign Close To $100,000

The Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign at noon today verged on the $99,000 mark and those in charge of the drive were confident the $100,000 total would be reached before the end of the day.

The campaign has just four more days to go. During this interval $40,000 more must be collected to put the campaign past its objective.

Officials of the drive again appealed today that persons who have not yet been called on by canvassers to give to the worthy cause, place their donation in an envelope and mail it to the campaign headquarters, Prince Robert House.

"Over the top in October," is more than just a slogan, Eric Wainwright, campaign director, observed today. It is a challenge to every individual who calls himself a citizen of Greater Victoria.

74 Scottish Members At Colorful Parade To Receive Stars, Medals For War Service

After Brig. F. N. Cabellu, right, former commander of the overseas "Fighting First" Battalion of the Scottish, had presented medals to officers, warrant officers, sergeants and other ranks, he was the recipient of a large parcel of stars and medals for his service from Brig. M. P. Bogert, British Columbia army area commander.

By ROY THORSEN
In the minds of many of the 900 in Bay Street Armory Monday the hell-fire of a frontline battle action was brought starkly to the forefront as "Victoria's Own," the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), paraded for another feature occasion in its two-war history.

Occasion was the presentation of stars and medals to present serving officers and men in the regiment's Reserve Army unit, awarded for service in the Second World War.

It was a repeat ceremony of one held in the postwar period of the 1914-18 conflict.

Once again the armory, home of the infantry regiment, resounded to the colorful skirl of the bagpipes as 74 veterans received their service awards.

Scores of the men who wore Scottish colors and survived the great fight from the "D" Day landing on the screaming fury that was the Normandy beaches right through to when the Nazis threw in the towel, were at the ceremony.

Most of them were not recipients on this occasion as it was strictly for those members who finished their active service roles and re-enlisted for service in the Reserve Army, always referred to as the backbone around which an army is formed when a national emergency arises.

However, some of the First Battalion of the Reserve were Scottish veterans from start to finish in the latest conflict.

The army, navy and air force were well represented in the guest section.

Brig. Fred N. Cabellu, C.B.E., D.S.O. and Bar, E.D., the soldier who commanded the "Fighting First" when they surged onto the beaches crammed with the horrors of all-out warfare, handed the men, most of them familiar to him, their stars and medals with firm handshake and a message of good luck.

Not a few of the 74 received four and five stars and medals ("awards you can well be proud of," said Brig. Cabellu), the most being the 1939-45 Star, France and German Star, Defence of Great Britain Medal, C.V.S.M. and Clasp and the War Victory Medal.

The odd few received six, the Italy Star adding to their array.

The pipe band was led by Pipe

Two-war overseas veteran and local concert stage entertainer, Sgt. Stan James smilingly receives his medal from Brig. Cabellu.

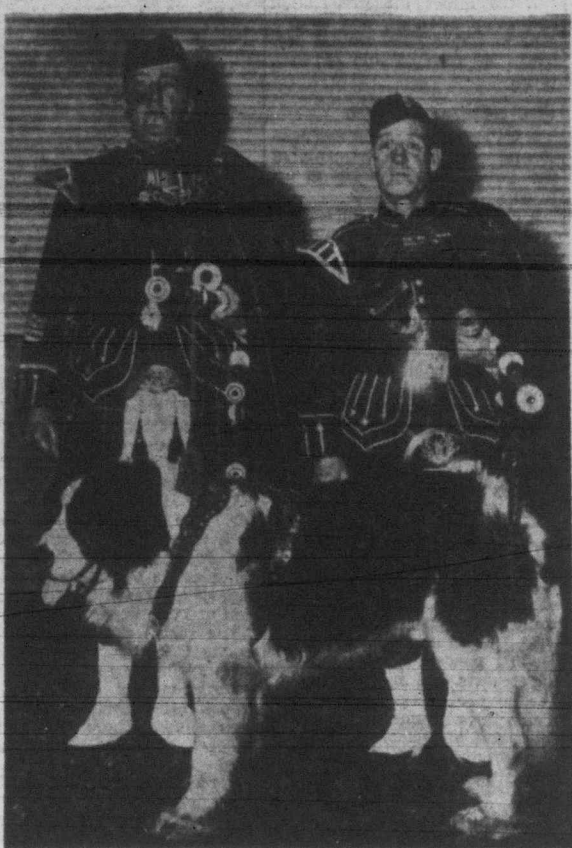

Major Andy Pollock, an overseas veteran who received no less than six awards for service in the latest war.

FATHER IS PROUD

"This is the proudest moment of my life," said Eric B. Chalmers, veteran of both the Boer War and the First World War. And the reason was that his battle-action son, Kenneth Chalmers, was on hand to receive his 1939-45 Star, France-German Star, C.V.S.M. and Clasp and War Medal for service in the battle against the Nazis in the Second World War.

Brig. Cabellu told of his extreme pleasure of meeting old comrades who saw the worst of the action in northwest Europe.

"It is a great pleasure to me to be in a position where I can present you with stars and medals for your great contribution to the fight against the Germans," said Brig. Cabellu, who for the greater part of the closing features of the evening spent his time meeting old friends of the "Fighting First" in the sergeants' mess.

All three were recipients of medals, Pollock displaying his six stars and medals. Wallace, carrying McGeorge's pipes in his mouth, strutted forward to receive his three medals and got a big hand from the gallery.

MASCOT DECORATED

Another outstanding figure in the evening's program was K 57000, Pte. Wallace, the ambling Saint Bernard mascot who thrilled countless thousands of people from Victoria to Nova Scotia and in England and Scotland in the last war as he proudly marched in the centre of the front row of the skirling pipe band on parades.

Wallace was in the same place again, by the side of his trainer and pal, Andrew ("Wee Andy") McGeorge.

The first name to be called out for presentation of awards was that of 11-year-old Wallace. He received three decorations—the 1939-45 Star, the Defence Medal and the C.V.S.M. and Clasp. Wallace was a bonafide enlistment in the latest world war. He has been staying with "Wee Andy" for most of the time since discharge and his present address is that of his trainer.

Richard Potts, vocalist and whistler, was among the chief entertainers in the sergeants' mess following the parade, which was in charge of Lt-Col R. D. (Bob) Travis, commanding the First Battalion of the Reserve Force.

Each member of the Scottish who stepped forward in smart military fashion to receive his awards, was given a hearty round of applause by the packed gallery.

Owing to an oversight several members of the pipe and brass band were overlooked in the general distribution ceremony. The medals were presented by Brig. Cabellu later at a special ceremony.

Guests included: Brig. M. P. Bogert, British Columbia area commander; Mayor Percy George, Reeve R. A. Wootton of Oak Bay, Rear-Admiral H. G. DeWolf, flag officer of the Pacific coast; Brig. Sutherland

Browne, Brig. J. F. Preston, Lt. Col. Cyril Wightman, Lt. Col. J. N. Gibson, Col. J. R. Kingham, Col. Russel Ker, Col. H. M. Urquhart, Maj. R. M. Ross, Maj. E. A. Henderson, Maj. A. M. Clarke and Squadron Leader A. W. J. Smith.

Meet the master of a difficult art!

THIS man is constantly "putting himself in other people's shoes" in order to see their problems from their viewpoint.

Doing this is an important part of his job. And he's so expert at it that he can easily make several of these quick changes in a single day.

With a middle-aged business man, for instance, he may be discussing ways and means of adding to a retirement fund. Right from the start, he will look at the facts in terms of that man's situation.

An hour later he may be considering, as though it were his own, the problem faced by a young father with dependents who need financial protection—or any of the various problems faced by countless other people who want to make the future more secure for themselves and their families.

He is the typical modern life insurance agent—a man who is not only an understanding listener, but a trained helper, too! Only through him can you get the advice you need to make life insurance meet your own individual needs.

More than a million Canadian families have benefited by the services of the skilled life underwriter. And he's always ready to help you!

A helpful citizen in your community.

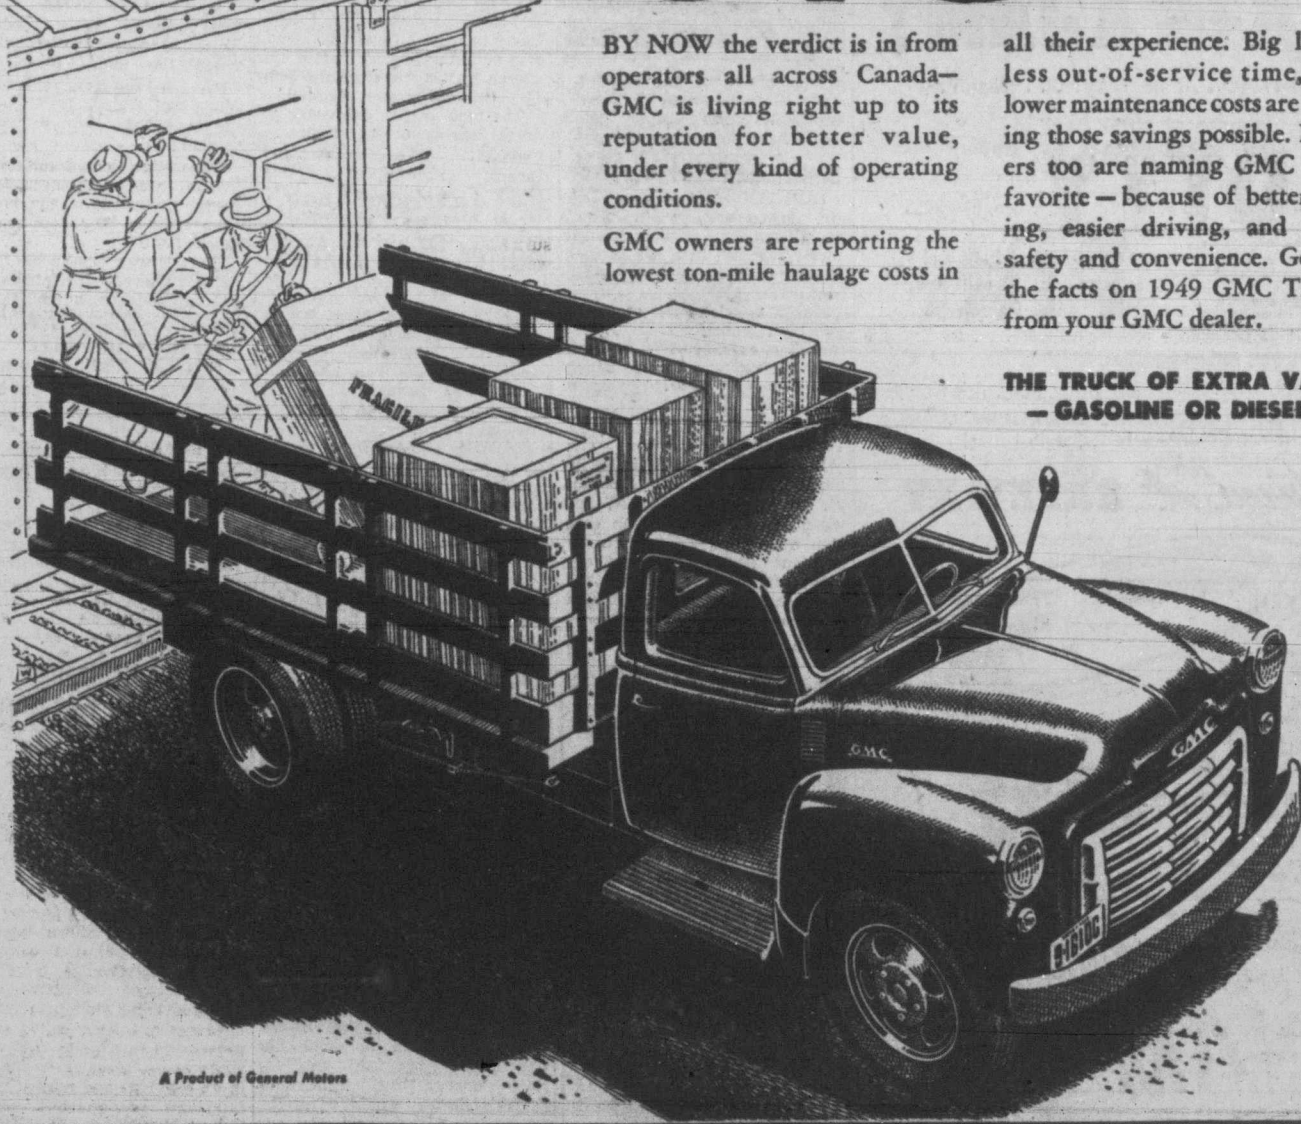

When your agent sells you life insurance, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work, through investments, to build schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living. You share in these improvements, made possible through the efforts of your helpful fellow-citizen—the modern life insurance agent!

Some folks say we sell too cheap; others say we pay too much for what we buy; and still we do a darn big turnover and make a good living at it. It's a funny thing for our part we will just go on paying as much as we possibly can for what we sell for as low a price as our policy will allow. We refer of course to our smaller profit and bigger turnover policy. It has never let us down yet and a good many hundreds of our customers tell you it has saved them money for quite a few years now.

Difficulties Seen In Writing Control Of Comics Into Code

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer thinks federal authorities have a problem on their hands to write controls of crime comics into the Criminal Code.

Practical steps of dealing with crime stories are not as easy as they may sound. He foresees difficulty in getting the exact language for a Criminal Code amendment which would deal with the specific problem yet at the same time not infringe among literature generally.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the movement to remove the pernicious influence of these publications on our children, but I am very much concerned with the practical way in which it is to be done," he said.

Justice Minister Garson has announced in Ottawa that he planned to write to all the attorneys-general seeking their opinion on methods of amending the criminal Code to suppress the salacious books.

A new code section might either be so innocuous and leave so many loopholes that it would not have any effect or else it might be so wide that it would hit not only crime comics but the whole body of literature to an extent that is not contemplated.

Mr. Wismer said the alternative to a code amendment was to pass a licensing statute over publications of this nature. This, of course, meant setting up licensing authority with censorship powers.

"There are grave difficulties here," he said. "It would put wide powers in the hands of a bureaucratic body."

Censorship powers of this nature could be badly used in the wrong hands, he said. They could encroach far beyond the strict purpose for which the statute was intended.

Government Asked To Build Big Span Over Fraser River

The provincial government today was asked to build a $2,000,000 bridge across the Fraser River to replace the present Rosedale-Agassiz ferry service.

The request was presented by a delegation of a dozen officials representing the municipalities of the area, the Chilliwack Board of Trade and others.

The delegation's brief to the provincial cabinet claimed that the present ferry service was inadequate, causing delays during rush periods as long as three hours. The delegation also estimated that it would cost $500,000 to restore ferry approaches and to replace the ferry, and maintenance of the service would cost $77,000 a year.

On the other hand, a bridge costing $2,000,000 could be maintained at an annual cost of $120,000 of which an estimated $90,000 would be paid in tolls.

"In short, we believe that the time has come to build a bridge, in the first place because of the urgent need and in the second place because of the unjustifiable cost of establishing a better ferry service," said the delegation.

Suggests Contest In City Hall Plans

A competitive scheme in the selection of plans for a new City Hall here was suggested to City Council today by architect Hubert Savage.

Mr. Savage said local practicing architects, willing to submit a design for a new hall, would be given the opportunity to do so if a competition was held.

Otherwise, one architect would be named to draw plans and the best type of building for the new "city home" might not be obtained.

A special committee of council was scheduled to recommend to council late this afternoon that an architect be employed to draw sketch plans and make an estimate of cost of constructing a two-story City Hall on city property at the southwest corner of Quadra and Pembroke Streets.

Plans of the committee are to finance the building next year probably.

The new hall would fit in with plans of council to change its administration with appointment of a city administrator.

THE STORY: Mrs. Malone, a widow who operates the Dude Hamburger Ranch on a main highway, is closing up her place after a successful tourist season. She intends to return to Los Angeles to spend the winter months. Then along the road comes a monster trailer, pulled by a truck and followed by a sedan pulling a smaller trailer. The huge vehicle stops and a woman steps out. She wants to catch the bus back to Los Angeles. As the woman waits, the truck driver, a handsome man in his late forties, asks Mrs. Malone if she'd like to cook for Mrs. Everson who lives in the trailer. At that moment the woman who is leaving looks at Mrs. Malone with frightened eyes and says: "Don't you do it!"

CHAPTER 2

"YOU TAKE my advice," the young woman with frightened eyes cried, "and don't you let him talk you into it! I was going to cook for her. But I'd rather be dead first! She's crazy. She's crazy, I tell you!"

Her voice rose in a kind of scream.

Mrs. Malone said quickly: "I think the bus is coming." She picked up her suitcase.

"You'd better be ready. They're late."

She felt a certain embarrassment at having witnessed the hysterical outburst. But she was curious, too—very curious. The black-haired driver took a deep puff of his cigarette, dropped it and ground it into the sand with the tip of his polished shoe.

The bus was making time. It loomed larger and larger, seeming to drink in the long blue river of road.

Mrs. Malone stood firmly planted, waving her winter coat so that its fur-trimmed sleeves flapped like a scarecrow's. Then she could hear the brakes beginning to take hold. The engine backfired noisily and the bus slowed to a stop.

"One passenger only. You'd better wait for the special!" "I'll be alone in half an hour," the driver called.

"Oh dear," the young woman cried. "I can't wait! I want to get away from here! I've got to!"

Mrs. Malone was first in line. It was her privilege to go. But that meant she would never know.

Mrs. Everson was not tall, but she gave the impression of height because of her slenderness and the lofty heels she wore.

"You go ahead," she said. "I'll wait here. I'm in no hurry." "Oh, thank you!"

TOOK THE JOB

THE young woman scrambled into the bus. Mrs. Malone could see the other passengers craning at the windows to get a better view of the monster trailer. Some of them were standing up and pointing.

But the bus couldn't wait. The door closed and the tires began to turn with a bubbling sound. Rapidly, the bus fled.

"That was very nice of you," the uniformed man said. "Why did you do it?"

"I thought maybe I'd take the job."

Mrs. Malone had not intended to go so far. The sudden impulse stemmed from her dread of being alone. Her husband had been an exciting companion—adventurous, brave and good-natured—and this would be her first winter without him.

The thought of the long, idle months ahead, spent as a sort of paying guest in her sister's house, made her reckless and desperate.

"What is there in it?" she asked. "For me, I mean? Is this Mrs. What's-Her-Name really crazy?"

"Crazy like a fox," the man said. "Come and meet her. You can see for yourself."

Mrs. Malone folded her coat and placed it neatly on top of her suitcase. She was aware of an accelerated heartbeat as she followed the driver and waited beside him for the steps to make their mysterious appearance.

Then she followed him into the trailer, ducking her head to clear the low doorway. She found herself in a narrow entry, from which a door opened to the left.

"Mrs. Everson? I think I've found another cook for you."

STRANGE WOMAN

A FIRST quick glance through the door disclosed a necessary narrow yet luxurious interior: an impression of silvery walls, hydrangea-blue curtains, sofas or bunks upholstered in gray satin.

But Mrs. Malone had no opportunity to observe the details. A woman was sitting tailor-fashion on one of the sofas. Her appearance was so extraordinary that her surroundings seemed unimportant in comparison.

She wasn't young, nor was she strictly beautiful. She had, rather, the ageless look achieved by certain famous actresses. Her skin was taut, her contours flawless, her hair abundant and rather dark. She had immense blue eyes and a narrow, pointed mouth. Her hands were large, the nails lacquered. Here, as so often happens, she stood revealed as a woman possibly in her 40's.

She wore a black crepe dress fastened by a slip set with diamonds in mounting platinum squares.

"How do you do?" she said. Her voice was a deep alto, unexpected in so slight a woman.

"Where did you find her, Rudy?" she asked the driver. "Did she drop out of the sky, like a frog in a rainstorm? A cook in the middle of the Mojave! How come?"

"QUITE ENOUGH"

MRS. MALONE explained quickly. She was not a cook by profession, but she was willing to try, provided, of course, that too much was not expected of her—fancy desserts, for instance, such as pastries.

"I understand soups, meats and sauces. They say I make the best coffee in California. That's about all..."

"It will be enough," Mrs. Everson interrupted. "If you're also willing to learn. What's your name?"

"Malone."

"Molly?"

The crimson mouth smiled; there was a trace of mockery in the eyes.

"My name's Margaret."

"I'll call you Malone."

Mrs. Everson unfolded and stood up. She was not tall, but she gave the impression of height because of her slenderness and the lofty heels she wore. Quenching her cigarette in a crystal dish full of half-smoked stubs stained with lipstick, she said:

"This is the situation. As you see, I'm a traveler, on my way to spend the winter in a remote, unsettled part of the country. This trailer is my home. Your room, if you decide to work for me, is here..."

Lethbridge Moves Up To Share Lead In Junior Hockey

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—The top rung of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League standings today sagged under the weight of three of the circuit's six teams. Lethbridge Native Sons, by trouncing Crow's Nest Pass Lions 8 to 3 here last night, pulled even with Medicine Hat Tigers and Moose Jaw Canucks on the top of the ladder.

Tigers and Canucks, only undefeated squads with two victories apiece, meet tonight in the Bengals' lair in a battle which could produce one league leader.

Guyle Fielder and Cal Hockley, each with two goals, provided the victory margin last night for Native Sons as Lions went down to their third defeat in as many starts. Fielder also contributed four assists.

Joe Wood, Art Stone, Steve Raz and Lorne Lewis rounded out the Lethbridge goal output. Vern Pachal contributed two counters and Alec Kovack added a singleton for Lions.

LaMotta-Cerdan In Return Bout Dec. 2

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Jake LaMotta of New York Monday agreed to defend his title against Marcel Cerdan in Madison Square Garden Dec. 2.

LaMotta, who won the 160-pound crown from the Frenchman in Detroit last June 16, and Cerdan, had been scheduled to meet in a return clash last Sept. 28. But LaMotta injured his right shoulder in training, and the bout was postponed.

Chenier, Canadian snooker champion, lost, 23 to 14, to Peter Mans, South African titlist, in his first heat in the round-robin tournament.

Under the handicap system, Chenier gave Mans three points a frame. He is playing Smith on even terms.

Children To Have Special Puck Rates

Commencing with tonight's game, special rates will be in effect for children under 15 years of age at all Victoria Cougar home games. It has been announced by club business manager Fred Hutchison.

Youngsters must be accompanied by adults but will be permitted to sit in a special section. Seats will be available in adjacent sections for parents or guardians.
